SECRECY SHROUDS COUNCIL'S WORK

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, April 20.—"Despite the official desire to represent the first meeting of the big three—Premiers Lloyd George, Nitti and Millerand—as being marked by perfect harmony, it is a fact that Premier Millerand clouded it with a renewed attempt to make Germany the primary subject of discussion," said a San Remo dispatch to the Daily Express today.

"Premier Millerand's attitude on Germany is that a sincere interpretation of the duty of France makes the path of the peace delegates tortuous. The French premier feels that Premier Nitti is ruled by the British line of conduct.

"As to the near east the British will predominate in the occupying forces on the Gallipoli peninsulas, while Turkey's hands will be tied by inter-allied surveillance of Turkish military forces, finances and commerce.

"An official veil of secrecy shrouds the conference of the supreme council and every obstacle is being placed in the way of the newspapers."

The San Remo correspondent of the Daily Telegraph says that Premier Nitti is inclined to emphasize the dangers and difficulties entailed in the economic reconstruction of central Europe if the allies employ the boycott or any other such drastic measure

According to the Exchange Telegraph the British oil controller has been summoned to San Remo to take part in the discussions.

AMERICANIZATION.

Problem of Foreign-Born To Be Discussed By Church Classes.

The study classes of the Rondout Presbyterian Church, have been given the privilege on successive Thursday evenings of summing up the work of the class. This week the Thursday evening meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Ellis's class. This class studied the Immigrant and the Americanization problem by the interpretative method. They have secured for a speaker. Mrs. Paula Fuller Smith who will tell of her experiences in the homes of the foreign born in Lowell, Mass., where for some years she was in charge of Y. W. C. A. extension work and also will describe a unique venture in Americanization by the College Club of Binghamton in which she participated.

SULLIVAN WITHDRAWS

Will Not Seek Right To Run Bus Line Here.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, April 20.—John L. Sullivan of Rosendale today withdrew an application to the Public Service Commission, Second District, for a certificate of public convenience and necesity for the operation of an auto bus line in Kingston as part of a line to Lawrenceville, Ulster county. John T. Cahill, Sullivan's attorney, says the latter has decided not to engage in operation of the route. A hearing on the petition was scheduled for Wednesday, April 28, at Kingston, before Chairman Charles B. Hill.

Roberts Appeal Argued.

At county court chambers the appeal from a decision in city court in the case of J. Charles Roberts, appellant, against the L. B. Van Wagenen Company, respondent, was argued this morning by Arthur C. Connelly for appellant and D. G. Atkins for respondent. The appeal is from a judgment given by City Judge Schirick in favor of the Van Wagenen Company who brought an action before him to recover for a bill of goods amounting to about $75 sold Mrs. Roberts, appellant's wife, and which her husband had refused to pay. Decision was reserved.

Fire Routed Out Families.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 20.—One hundred and fifty families were driven from their homes and damages estimated at $100,000 resulted from a fire which broke out early today in the Williamsburg section of Brooklyn. One hundred telephone girls in the Williamsburg exchange stuck to their switchboards while squads of firemen fought flames from the roof of the smoke-filled building. The fire started in a wood-turning factory and spread to several adjoining buildings before it could be checked.

Thompson's Body Unfound.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 20.—Marine police and attaches of the U. S. Naval Air Force Station at Rockaway Point are searching today for the body of Lieutenant Richard W. Thompson of Raleigh, N. C., who was drowned in Jamaica Bay while attempting his first solo flight. Thompson's machine went into a tail spin while 300 feet up and fell into the water. Divers descended to the plane beneath the water but could not find the body.

Leap Year Dance.

A public Leap Year dance will be given by the Daughters of Isabella at the K. of C. Home on Broadway Thursday evening. Carl Shurter's orchestra will play for dancing and refreshments will be served.

ALLIED GENERALS DISCUSS TURKEY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Remo, Italy, April 20.—Marshal Foch, Gen. Sir Henry Wilson of the British general staff; General Badoglio, of the Italian general staff, and Admiral Lord Beatty, of the British navy, who are attending the meeting of the interallied supreme council met during the morning and exchanged views on the necessary measures to restore order in the Orient, particularly in Turkey.

Turkish affairs, especially the draft of the allied reply to President Wilson's recent Turkish note opposing any Turkish sovereignty on European soil, has been the chief subject under discussion since the supreme council began its sessions yesterday morning.

It is understood that the program regarding German affairs has been changed.

Premier Lloyd George and Premier Nitti are said to be aginst the French proposal for joint allied occupation of the Ruhr district if Germany fails to fulfill certain clauses of the treaty of Versailles.

Premier Nitti has invited the German peace delegation at Paris headed by Dr. Goeppert, to send representatives to the supreme council meeting to explain Germany's position. Up to the time this dispatch was written, no reply had been received.

In the reply to President Wilson's note, which the allies have drafted, it is understood that explanation is made why the entente cannot accept certain views on the future of Turkey which the American executive had presented.

The premiers complain that the non-representation of the United States at the supreme council meeting will necessarily delay a final settlement of the Turkish problem. It is held that America's assent is necessary to render the treaty operative.

HATS FOR A DOLLAR

Other Goods in Proportion at Church Rummage Sale.

Everything from hats to bedsteads is on sale at the store 579 Broadway where the ladies of St. John's church are conducting a rummage sale this week. Millinery is the chief attraction, there being no hat more expensive than one dollar and many less than that. Some of these hats are absolutely new, donated by Kingston merchants. The store is just opposite where the Red Cross Headquarters used to be. "The word "rummage" applied to this sale belies its real character. Many of the things are gifts from the best houses in Kingston. A good bedstead with springs is there, a fine outfit for basket ball games will interest the boys, pictures well framed and attractive, and hats! hats! hats! Open every afternoon this week. For the benefit of St. John's Episcopal Church.

ADJOURN SATURDAY.

Legislature Working Hard to Clear Up Business.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—Bent upon final adjournment sometime Saturday, the legislature early today began a determined effort to clear its clogged calendars. The senate worked until dawn.

Among the measures passed in the tedious grind was the Sage bill carrying out Governor Smith's recommendations that the board of port wardens of New York city be abolished. The board is now solidly democratic.

When the senate adjourned it was in respect to Mrs. Marshall, wife of Senator N. Munroe Marshall of Malone, who died last night.

THRACIAN REBELS

Sultan's Opponents Looting Banks And Raiding.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Constantinople, April 19. (Delayed)—New disorders have broken out in Thrace. Followers of Jaffar Tayar are raiding villages and looting banks, according to information received here today. The Thracian reactionaries signify their separation from the Sultan by abandoning the Fez and adopting black caps.

(Thrace is the district of Turkey north of the sea of Marmora and the Aegean Sea that was allotted to Greek sovereignty.)

RAILWAY CLERKS NOT TO STRIKE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Chicago, April 20.—Another wet blanket was cast over the switchmen's strike in the Chicago district today as the result of the action of 38,000 railway clerks and freight handlers in voting against joining the strike late Monday night. The vote favored leaving their wage grievances to be settled by the labor board appointed under the Cummins-Esch law.

John Grunau, chief of the strikers, and four of his aides, are in jail today as a result of their refusal to give bail on their rearrest on charges of violation of the Lever act. Twenty-five more re-arrests of strike leaders are planned.

Railroad officials reported the freight movement here to be back to sixty percent of normal. There is a serious situation in the coal supply now on hand, due to the strike here, and officials are considering establishing a fuel administration in Chicago unless the supply improves materially within the next few days.

HELPING SALLIES.

U. S. Aviator Makes First Trip of Season up Hudson.

"Dear Sallies, one good turn deserves another," is the way the United States army aviators feel towards the Salvation Army Lassies who served them with doughnuts and apple pies overseas, and this is the slogan, which two army airplanes bore Monday when they left Mitchell Field, the U. S. A. aviation field, at Garden City, Long Island, loaded with emergency supplies to be used in the nationwide campaign for the Salvationists' Home Service Fund, which is to take place May 10 to 20.

One of the airplanes, bound for Albany, was the first airship to make the trip up the Hudson river this season. It was piloted by Lieut. John P. Roullot with Sergeant Bryan Coleman mechanician, and arrived in Albany in one hour and 35 minutes. It carried supplies needed in the early arrangement of the campaign, but which had been delayed through the congested conditions of the mail and express service.

COURT IN CHAMBERS.

Jurors Excused—No Cases Ready For Trial.

The April term of county court which convened April 5 and which was recessed over until Monday afternoon, reconvened at 2 o'clock with Judge Joseph M. Fowler presiding. There were no cases ready for trial and all jurors were excused for the term and court adjourned to chambers. Case No. 11, George C. Lasher against H. Winfield Misner, a negligence action, which was on the day calendar was put over the term on motion of the defendant on payment of usual term fees. The only witness for the defendant is ill and unable to attend. The case went over on agreement that it be tried at the June term of court.

TO BUILD HOTEL

Catskill To See Commercial Replaced By Brooklyn Man.

Speeding in Catskill.

An individual who gave his name as Fred Smith of Kingston careened up Main street yesterday afternoon in a motorcycle with a sidecar in which was a lady. His speed was about forty miles an hour, and, on his return, he was arrested by Officer James Fitzsimmons and taken before Police Justice Waggoner, who imposed a fine of $10 as a reminder that the speed ordinance is rigidly enforced in Catskill.—Catskill Mail.

New Holiday For Roosevelt.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—October 27th, birthday of Theodore Roosevelt, will be the state's next legal holiday, if the legislature has its way. The senate now is ready to pass on the Traban bill declaring it a holiday. The assembly passed the bill last night by a vote of 100 to 32, those who objected asserting the state now has enough legal holidays.

To Lengthen Bridge.

By request of the state highway commission, the Saugerties town board has decided to lengthen the bridge on the Saugerties-Palenville highway seven feet, this to be done before the construction work begins. The bridge is located near the Finger place at the foot of Quarryville hill.

CABINET MET NOTHING DONE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, April 20.—President Wilson today spent an hour and a quarter in meeting with his cabinet.

Cabinet members later stated there "had only been a general discussion."

However, it was learned that the railroad question was discussed informally and that gratitude was voiced by the president and the cabinet at the progress being made by the railway labor board and the restoration of general normal railroad conditions.

Secretary of State Colby refused to state whether the question of representation for the United States at the San Remo conference of allied premiers had been taken up.

CLASS CONFIRMED.

Twenty-Eight at St. John's Receive Rite From Bishop Hulse.

Sunday at St. John's Episcopal Church, at the half past ten o'clock morning service, a class of twenty-eight persons receiving the laying on of hands, the rite of confirmation being administered by Bishop Hiram H. Hulse of Cuba, an old and greatly admired friend of the parish over which he formerly presided in the capacity of Archdeacon. The class was one of the largest ever confirmed in this church, including many adults, and the congregation was equally large, even the gallery of the church being filled. Bishop Hulse's address to the candidates was marked by simplicity, genuineness, and inspirational thought, the theme being "Christ in each of us, the only Saviour of the World." The communion service followed the sermon and at the close of the impressive service, Bishop Hulse personally met the candidates and friends in the congregation, in the parish house.

SCOUT NEWS.

Scout Executive Forms New County Troop, Sees Deer, Goes Fishing.

On Friday of last week, Scout Executive Muhlemann visited Woodstock and addressed the Scouts of that village. He then went on to Woodland and there formed the boys of the Woodland School for Boys, as a complete body, into a most enthusiastic troop, with Dr. Spink's son as scoutmaster. Sunday Mr. Muhlemann preached to the boys in the morning and in the evening was the preacher at a big union service held at the Reformed Church in Woodstock. While in Woodland, the scout executive had the exciting pleasure of seeing his two first deer in the open, and also enjoyed trout fishing.

Last Lusk Bill Through Senate.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—The senate today passed the last of the famous Lusk bills aimed at eradication of radical elements within the state. The bill provides for special courses of study for the training of teachers of the foreign born. The bill carries an appropriation of $40,000.

Allenby's Conquest in Pictures.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Miss Gertrude Jones, laughter of Col. S. R. Jones, who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. W. Darrow of Main street, Saugerties, left Saturday for San Francisco, California. Miss Jones in the near future will be united in marriage to Dr. Hanner of the U. S. Army hospital corps, now stationed in California.

Mrs. Mabel Heiser Forsyth was the recipient of a surprise shower Monday evening, given in her honor at the residence of her brother, J. Lewis Heiser, 96 Green street, by a number of her friends. The dining room was artistically decorated, the color scheme being pink and white, clusters of pink roses adorning the table. A large inverted pink parasol was suspended from the ceiling. This was festooned with pink roses from which streamers of baby ribbon were draped that were attached to packages in the parasol. The ribbons led to tiny pink parasols on the banquet table. Mrs. Forsyth, the guest of honor, pulled the ribbons and each guest in turn was the recipient of an appropriate token. Before the dinner and shower games were enjoyed and an hour or more most pleasantly had by all present. The shower was arranged in honor of the marriage in the near future of Mrs. Forsyth to Frederick E. Voorhees of 198 Main street. Best wishes were expressed to the bride to be by the guests for her future happiness.

VOICES BAR ASS'N LEAGUE OBJECTION

Judge Clearwater, Selected to Present American View at London, but Unable to Go, Writes that Washington's Advice to Avoid Foreign Entanglements Still Carries Weight Here—National and Personal Liberty Our First Considerations.

It was well said by Howard Chipp at the Schoonmaker dinner Saturday night that the importance of a city was dependent upon the distinction and character of its people, not upon the number of its inhabitants. Francis Lynde Stetson, the great lawyer, in his address at the Champlain tercentenary celebration, said there were three places in the state that were famous before the American Revolution, and always had been famous because of the distinction of the men who lived in them. They were New York, Kingston and Albany. It always is pleasant for Kingstonians to know that this ancient town stands high in the world's esteem.

The Judges of the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice in England, having arranged for a conference to be held in London in May to discuss the League of Nations and its effect upon international relations, asked three former presidents of the American Bar Association to suggest an American lawyer who properly could present the American view in opposition to the league. They suggested Judge Clearwater in a letter in which they said he could present the opposing view "with lucidity, force, brevity and becoming dignity of diction." Whereupon the English judges extended an invitation to Judge Clearwater to deliver such an address. His engagements, however, are of such a character as to make it impossible for him to visit London this spring. His letter acknowledging and declining the invitation, expresses the opposing view with a candor, fairness and compression which it is believed will commend itself to the readers of The Freeman whether they agree with his conclusion or not. He says:

I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your courteous invitation of the 24th ultimo, requesting me to present at the International Conference to be held in May, the views of the American Bar in opposition to the covenant and treaty in the discussion on the League of Nations; to express my profound appreciation and thanks for the honor and the courtesy and my regret that the pressure upon my time prevents me from accepting it.

It would be presumptuous in me to pretend to any mandate from the American Bar adequately to formulate its opposition to the covenant and the treaty in so far as it relates to the United States, in fact the bar is far from being united in such an opposition, a great diversity of view existing among its members. Were I able to visit London and participate in the discussion, I would be at liberty merely to present the view of those members with whom I have been most closely associated, and who strongly oppose ratification by the senate. With them I agree that in the form framed at Versailles it would be inadvisable for the United States to adopt it, not because this country is hostile to the maintenance of universal peace, but primarily for the reason that to many of us it seems unwise if not hazardous to enter into any alliance by which we undertake to espouse the cause of any belligerent a party to the league which may become involved in war with a nation other than ourselves.

While the world greatly has changed since the time of Washington, and distance substantially has been annihilated, yet to the conservative members of our profession it still seems unwise to depart from his salutary advice, and avoid entanglements by foreign alliance.

This substantially is the basic ground of our objection to ratification. I believe I am justified in saying that peradventure the emergency ever should arise, the United States can be relied upon to discharge its duty to humanity and civilization equally as regards the furnishing of men and money, but of that necessity we must be the sole and final judge. We cannot submit the determination of our action to any one or any group of nations.

Liberty with us, particularly complete liberty of action, is the most precious and valued of our traditions and possessions. Compared with national and personal liberty all other things and considerations fade into utter insignificance. Therefore it is that so large a proportion of our people are reluctant in the remotest degree to place the slightest restraint upon our freedom.

If this thoroughly were understood in Great Britain upon the continent of Europe, and in Asia, I am confident there would be less misrepresentation as to the motives animating our people.

While I do not question the sincerity of those who differ from this view, the more thoroughly the subject is considered, the more deeply am I convinced of the soundness of our position.

I trust you understand that none of us underrate the splendor of the sacrifice and service rendered by the British Empire and its dependencies in the great struggle, sacrifice and service unparalleled unexampled in the history of the world.

Again with many thanks for the courtesy of your invitation, I am, My Lords,

Respectfully yours,
A. T. CLEARWATER.

MAYGIVETEACHERS EMERGENCY BONUS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—Confronted by repeated demands from the big teachers' lobby, legislative leaders today have practically agreed to discard first proposals for salary increases and to grant an emergency bonus of approximately $350 for each of the 53,000 teachers in the state and to leave permanent settlement of the salary question to study by a legislative commission.

The fund for the bonus payments in all probability will be raised by a direct tax of one mill on real estate which will raise $13,300,000, according to Senator Henry M. Sage, chairman of the senate financial committee.

The teachers have maintained a big lobby to press their demands.

Teachers today admitted that they despaired of having the senate pass the Lockwood-Donohue bill which carries their original demands of increases ranging from 20 to 40 per cent. One vote is said to be lacking for the Sage bill which considerably reduces the increases demanded by the teachers.

DEATH RECALLS FAMOUS FAMILY

James S. Armstrong died Saturday at his home, Wayside, at Red Hook, of acute indigestion. The funeral was held this afternoon from the late residence with interment in the family vault in Rhinebeck. Mr. Armstrong in his younger days was a great traveler and made six trips around the world with the late W. B. Astor in the latter's yacht, Ambassador, but of late years has led a retired life. He was not married. The Armstrong family was long noted in American history. General Armstrong, a great grandfather, served during the Revolutionary War, and for his services was awarded a tract of land extending from Fleischmanns to Margaretville, approximately 20,000 acres. The general's brother was Judge Armstrong, who administered the oath of office to General George Washington when he assumed his duties as the first president of the United States. An uncle was the first United States ambassador to France from this country and the parlor furniture in the residence at Red Hook was imported from France at that time. The Armstrong family at one time occupied the famous old Senate House in Kingston. Deceased's father at one time owned Ferncliff, the present home of Vincent Astor at Rhinebeck, and sold the property to the late W. B. Astor. The dead man's brother, William, died about six or eight years ago, and by the terms of his will left a trust fund of $200,000 the interest of which was to be used for the Old Folks' Home at Rhinebeck. The Armstrong family was related to the Schermerhorn, Livingston, Chandler and Astor families, all of old Revolutionary stock. Deceased was a personal friend of Ex-Charity Commissioner Carl G. Fischer of Kingston.

FIRST SHAD CAUGHT.

James Prusack of Third Avenue Lands Two Beauties.

This morning James Prusack of Third avenue caught the first Hudson river shad of the season off Kingston Point. One of the shad, which tipped the scales at eight pounds, he sold to Abram Handler of the Strand. Local fishermen expect a good shad season this year and residents who enjoy a shad dinner hope their expectations prove true.

"Everywoman" Tickets.

All dollar tickets for the play, "Everywoman" which is to be given at the High School Friday evening, whether they are to be exchanged for fifty or seventy-five cent seats or dollar seats must be handed in to the box office at the Y. M. C. A. before six o'clock Wednesday evening. After this hour anyone may obtain any high priced seat on the payment of one dollar. If any person who has purchased a dollar ticket fails to exchange it for a seat, it will be assumed that such person wishes to donate this money to the senior class fund.

Furniture Sale Continued.

The "Seven Furniture Days" that was advertised by Lord & Taylor, New York, in The Freeman, April 12, and scheduled to end Monday, April 19, has out of courtesy to Lord & Taylor's out of town patrons been continued to Saturday, April 24, inclusive. The abnormal travelling conditions that obtained last week prevented thousands of out of town patrons from taking advantage of this sale; it is for the benefit of these people that this announcement is made.

Albany Avenue Baptist Church.

The Go-to-Church Band will hold its monthly meeting in the lecture room of the church Wednesday afternoon, at four o'clock. The president, Miss Helen Brigham, will be the leader. On Thursday evening the prayer meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

SIDETRACKING GOVERNOR'S BILLS

Republican Senators to Pass Three Bills for Reorganizing State Government and Let People Vote on Them—Fight on Smith Program Begins.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—The first battle in the fight begun by Governor Smith to conserve and make more efficient the state's machinery of government will be staged today in the senate when Senator Leonard W. H. Gibbs of Buffalo moves to force out of committee and pass three bills carrying out executive recommendations.

In an attempt to sidetrack the governor's reconstruction program, the Republican leaders today are decided upon a reorganization scheme of their own. Three bills carrying their ideas are backed by Senator Henry M. Sage, chairman of the senate finance committee. They will be passed and submitted to the people in the fall of 1921.

In substance they provide three alternatives which are to be submitted to the people for choice. They provide:

Election only of governor, lieutenant governor, comptroller and treasurer, the latter official being given over the duty of assessment and collection of taxes.

Election only of governor and lieutenant governor, all other officers being appointive, the people being asked to decide whether all institutions for the insane, for mental defectives and for criminals shall be combined under one great department.

Giving to the legislature power to consolidate departments after investigation.

U. S. MINUTE MEN.

Poem From Dominican Republic About the Marines.

The following poem has been received by Mr. and Mrs. James Hicks from their son, James Henry Hicks, Jr., who is stationed at La Vegen Dominican Republic U. S. Marine Barracks:

United States Marine.

They're the minute men of Uncle Sam,
They never ask or give a d—
What kind of a job theirs, nor where
Just give them the order and they are there.
Quick on the trigger, and fight on the run
For every man is a son of a gun
With Uncle Sam's Marines.

They're hard-hard-shelled cusses and full of grit,
They're seasoned and nervy and battlefit.
Shoulder to shoulder, and hand to hand,
They're first at sea and first to land.
At home, in the trenches, or with the fleet,
They will always take death before defeat.
United States Marine.

RUHR REVOLTERS ARE SUPPRESSED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Dusseldorf, April 19, via Paris, April 20—Peace has been restored in the Ruhr district, but only by force of arms. Most of the workmen members of the former red army have returned to the mines and factories, but "action committees" are functioning. They are still maintaining an organization and declare that the workmen will be called to arms if the Reichswehr break the government agreement and advance through the Elberfeld-Barmen-Hagen district.

Most of the workers are bitter against the Berlin government, which they call reactionary. Some of them declare that they would prefer Bolshevism although they personally disclaim being Bolshevists. Others say they would welcome intervention by the allies in the Ruhr district.

The workers accuse General Hasse, commanding the Bavarian reichswehr of organized brutality during the advance into the Ruhr zone.

It is alleged the Bavarians shot women and children at Bolkun, near Hamm, and that twenty-two residents of Barmen were shot while trying to enter Essen. It is further charged that troops of the marine brigade cut the throats of some of their victims in the fighting around Essen.

ULSTER PARK.

Ulster Park, April 19.—Ulster Grange held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening, April 7. One application was received. The Grange voted to hold its meetings on standard time. It has always used every effort for the repeal of the Daylight Savings Law, so it is only consistent that the Grange meet at the old time and by so doing prove that it practices what it preaches. Current events under the literary program, were interesting as usual and brought out animated discussions. The next meeting of the Grange will be held the 21st inst.

The entertainment given under the auspices of the Grange on Friday evening, April 9, was a great success. All the parts were well rendered and over sixty dollars were cleared for the Grange treasury.

Kenneth Van Oostenbrugge of Schenectady spent the week end at the home of L. M. Hermance.

Tom Pennington of Connecticut is visiting his brother, Mark Pennington.

Wilbur Gummerson of Brooklyn spent the week end at the home of L. Herring.

Miss Ruth DeGraff of Kingston was a visitor in this place Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Pennington are entertaining Mr. Pennington's father from Chicago.

Ruth Cole was a week end visitor at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wells of Poughkeepsie were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Eckert.

Countess Zichy.
INTERNATIONAL.

Ninety-three days spent in the cook's galley of a tramp steamer, and a thrilling escape from the Bolsheviks, was the experience of Countess Zichy, niece of King Albert of Belgium. Countess Zichy arrived in New York several days ago and there will complete her interrupted honeymoon. Caught in Austria when the Bolsheviks took over the government, the countess and her husband narrowly escaped being placed under arrest. They reached a seaport and there boarded a tramp steamer. Shipping as workers, they reached New Orleans. Thence they went to New York. The couple plan to remain in New York for some time before they return to Belgium.

KRUMVILLE.

Krumville, April 19.—A gloom was cast over this community last week when Miss Edna Adelaide Donohue died on Saturday morning after a few days' illness of pneumonia. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Donohue. She was seven years of age, and beloved by every one in this locality. The funeral was held Tuesday morning in the Reformed Church conducted by Rev. Thomas S. Braithwaite, the pastor.

An impressive service was held in the Reformed Church last Wednesday afternoon when Rev. Thomas S. Braithwaite was formally installed pastor of the Lyonsville and Krumville churches. The Rev. Ernest Clapp of New Paltz, president of the Classis of Kingston, presided and Rev. George C. Dangremond of High Falls, preached the sermon. Rev. A. A. Zabriskie of Kingston, gave the charge to the people, while Dr. Clapp gave the charge to the pastor. Mr. Braithwaite comes from a seventeen year pastorate on Long Island where he was successful in building up the church and erecting a parish house.

Highly Honored.

A distinguished celestial, lecturing in American cities on things Chinese, addressed his Philadelphia audience thus: "I am indeed pleased to be with you. Week before last I had the pleasure of addressing the literati of Boston. Last week I spoke before the profligati of New York, and now I am glad to be among the sarcophagi of Philadelphia."—From the World Outlook.

STATE OF NEW YORK—SUPREME COURT—COUNTY OF ULSTER.

Victor Van Wagenen against John C. Kimmerly, and Mary Kimmerly, his wife, and May Lockwood Van Wagenen.

In pursuance of a Judgment of Foreclosure and Sale duly made in the above entitled action March 6th, 1920, and entered in Ulster County Clerk's Office March 8, 1920, I, the undersigned, the referee in said Judgment named, will sell at public auction to the highest bidder at the front door of the court house, Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 24th day of April, 1920, at twelve noon of that day, the premises directed by said Judgment to be sold and therein described as follows:

ALL THAT CERTAIN LOT, PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND, in Marbletown aforesaid, lying northwesterly or a certain run of water called Gladt Klipt Kill, beginning at a heap of stones on the lands of formerly Stephen N. Ostrander, and runs thence north forty-eight degrees and fifteen minutes west forty-five chains and fifty links to a heap of stones, thence south forty-one degrees and three-quarters west twelve chains and sixty links to a pitch pine tree marked, thence south forty-one and a half degrees east forty-five chains and thirty links to the bounds of formerly William Constable and then along his bounds north forty-one and three-quarter degrees east seventeen chains and ninety-six links to the place of beginning. Containing sixty-nine acres. Being same premises heretofore conveyed by Matthew Oliver, executor, of last will and testament of James Oliver, deceased, to James Ostrander, Daniel S. Ostrander and Timothy Ostrander by deed dated June 2nd, 1839 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 53 at page 425, etc., and as described in such deed to which deed or the record thereof reference is hereby made.

Also all that certain lot or parcel of land situate lying and being in Marbletown aforesaid, as heretofore conveyed to Daniel S. Ostrander by Anne Oakley by deed dated June 6th, 1851, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 122, at pages 585, etc., and in said deed described as follows: Being part of a lot conveyed by the Trustees of Marbletown to Abraham Rappleyea and bounded as follows; as described in a release from Abraham Oakley to the said Anna Oakley, beginning at a stake and stones on the south bounds of land in possession of Abraham Bush, from thence along the same as the needle pointed in 1803, south thirty-seven degrees thirty minutes west twenty-three chains seventy-two links to stones thence south fifty degrees east seven chains to a stake and stones on the bounds of a wood lot of Staats Sarles, and along the same north forty degrees east twenty-three chains seventy-one links to a stake and stones and from thence with a straight line to the place of beginning. Containing seventeen acres and eight-tenths.

Excepting and reserving from the above described lot so much thereof as heretofore conveyed to George Slater by Daniel S. Ostrander and Mary Ann his wife by deed dated April 9th, 1850, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Book of Deeds No. 86, page 498, etc., and conveying about three acres of land.

And also all that lot or piece of land in Marbletown aforesaid, devised to Mary Ann Oakley by John I. Oakley and conveyed to said Oakley by David Davis and Rebecca his wife by deed dated May 1st, 1857, and duly recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office and in said deed described as follows: All that certain wood lot known as lot No. Six of the Marbletown Commons and is butted and bounded as follows, viz: Beginning on the easterly bounds of said lot and runs from thence, as the needle pointed in 1803, south 40° west ten chains to stones, then north 50° west forty-five chains to stones, then north 40° east seven chains twenty-five links to black oak sapling then south 85° east 4 chains 48 links to stones, and then south 50° east 41 chains 50 links to the place of beginning. Containing about 44 acres of land.

Excepting out of the above described lot 13 and one-tenth acres conveyed to Joseph Bush and ten acres conveyed to George Bush by John L. Markle and Phebe Eliza his wife, making on all twenty-three and one-tenth acres of land which is not to be conveyed by these presents. Being the same premises conveyed to John C. Kimmerly and wife by the Ulster County Savings Institution, by deed bearing even date and recorded herewith.

Dated March 8, 1920.

Is Riggs Right?

READ WHAT RIGGS DID—READ WHAT RABBI WISE SAID—AND DID—, AND THEN—WHAT DO YOU SAY? WHAT WILL YOU DO?

Riggs is a Near Relief worker (one of 511) in Western Asia—the Turk's Butcher Shop. Riggs has been there for some time. He has seen sights—men murdered in cold blood, women stricken down or, worse, led into brutal bondage; little children, homeless, naked, starving, "dropping like flies, in the streets." General Harbord called it "misery unadorned." Howard Heinz, representing Herbert Hoover there, said: "Merciful God, it's all true. Nobody has ever told the whole truth. Nobody could!"

And yet Riggs, kindly, compassionate, heroic Riggs, has not grown callous, has not lost faith. Riggs sent a cablegram. It was addressed to Dr. James L. Barton, chairman of Near East Relief. And when Rabbi Stephen Wise, of the Free Synagogue, New York City, read that cablegram he wrote a brief letter to Dr. Barton.

THE CABLEGRAM

BARTON 14 BEACON STREET BOSTON MASS. NEW REDUCTION APPROPRIATION NECESSITATES TURNING OUT MANY OUR ORPHANS TO STARVE AS WINTER BEGINS BESIDES THOUSANDS ALREADY REFUSED. WE CANNOT DO IT.
HARRY RIGGS
Harpoot, Armenia

THE LETTER

Dear Dr. Barton:

Riggs is right. He can't do it. He can't turn out any more orphans, and we must not let him. I beg the privilege of taking care of one of the orphans for the year and of pledging $100 for its care. I am sure that many, many more would do this if they knew of these little ones. Riggs is right. God bless him.
(Signed) Stephen Wise

Two hundred and fifty thousand homeless children are dependent on the kindly hearts of America for rescue from cold, hunger and disease.

Over one million adults are destitute. The Turks have wantonly demolished their dwellings, stolen their farming implements, robbed their country of every valuable thing—even the window panes from houses and hospitals have been carried away! Until the next harvest the only hope of these people is America.

"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills, from whence cometh my help!"

The oldest Christian people on earth——now free, though crushed by centuries of oppression—lift up their eyes to America, to YOU!

MUST THEY LOOK IN VAIN? MUST LITTLE SHIVERING CHILDREN BE TURNED OUT TO DIE?
NO! NOT IF YOU, TOO, SAY WITH RABBI WISE:

"Riggs is right.... God bless him!"

NEW WALL STREET RESTAURANT OPEN

The new Advance restaurant in the Advance building on Wall street, opposite the court house, opened this morning, serving the first breakfast to Attorney D. G. Atkins. With the opening of the Advance restaurant on Wall street this section of the city is supplied with a modern high class restaurant and bakery where all kinds of good things to eat may be secured at all hours of the day and evening. A specialty will be the French and Danish pastry baked in the Advance daylight bakery in the rear of the restaurant.

The display of French and Danish pastry in the window this morning attracted many people. Without a doubt it was one of the finest displays of fancy baking which has ever been shown in this city.

The Advance restaurant, presided over by a corps of pretty waitresses, did a good business during the day, and Mr Schwartz, the proprietor, was well pleased with the first day's business The restaurant will be open daily from 6 a. m. until 12 o'clock midnight Beside the regular a la carte service at all hours, there will be a special lunch from 12 to 2 o'clock and a special table de hote dinner in the evening from 6 until 9 o clock

Sundays a special dinner will be served all day and the management will cater to family trade on that day.

The dining room and kitchen of the restaurant are spotless and the modern daylight bakery one of the best equipped in the city for turning out all kinds of pastry.

The Advance will cater to all kinds of trade • If you wish a simple dinner or an elaborate feast, the Advance will supply it and automobile tourists will be cared for. A special department for the motorist will be one of the features. Here a lunch, neatly packed, will be supplied and put up especially for motor parties.

Located near one of the shopping centers and in the heart of the theater district, the Advance is bound to succeed and give to the people of Kingston a modern up-to-date restaurant such as has been in demand for a long time by the residents of the city and the traveling public.

Elm A. C. Dance a Success.

Upwards of three hundred people attended the Elm A C dance at St Mary's Hall Monday evening and enjoyed a good time. Miss Alice Dugan sang "Daddy, You've Been More Than a Mother to Me," in a charming manner Frank Tierney, one of the foremost tenors in this section, sang very feelingly "Miami" it being necessary to repeat the chorus the applause being so great He was followed by Miss Kathryn Dugan, who rendered, in a beautiful manner, "Lonesome." She also had to respond to an encore. The sextet, who were to sing, were unable to do so, owing to the inability of Peter Jordan to do his part, he having contracted a severe cold Sam Affron kindly consented to sing, and his rendition of "By Jingo" was so well received that he was obliged to respond to an encore. "In the Heart of a Rose." Dancing continued until 1 o'clock. Shurter's orchestra being at its best.

A Ventilation Test.

Mrs. Newlywed was speaking proudly to her caller of their new house, and told of its having hollow block construction, thus insuring plenty of ventilation. "I don't think your modern dwelling has anything on our old-fashioned frame house in that respect," returned her caller. "Every night we lock the cat in the cellar and let her out of the attic in the morning."—Boston Transcript.

A REMARKABLE CONCERT MONDAY

Handicapped by Absence of Out-of-Town Members, Local Musicians Made Creditable Showing and Harry Dodge Accompanied Laurenti in Masterly Manner—Opera Star Won Hearts of Big Audience.

Circumstances to the contrary notwithstanding, there were many things about Monday evening's Symphony concert which made it a notable event in the history of the society. The audience was somewhat puzzled when five, ten, fifteen and then more minutes passed and the musicians' chairs were not all filled and the program did not begin. Finally Manager Herbert came forward and explained that the half dozen or so musicians from West Point who have been playing with the orchestra this year had, at the very last, been unable to make the train for Kingston owing to a special inspection drill at West Point. However, it had been determined to go on with the concert, so far as possible, without the absent wood wind and brass instruments. As a result of the most distressing circumstance every musician did a little bit more than his best. Jacob Mollott laid aside his beloved 'cello to take the desk of the first violin, the concert master, and some of the expert musicians, where their instruments would permit, read more than their own score, thus filling the harmonies so as to make the numbers possible.

This disadvantage was in fact turned to good account, for it showed to Kingston concert goers just what fine material we have right here at home and because of the continual rehearsals together, without a late addition of outside musicians, the attacks and releases were remarkably clean cut and the shading fine The string choir was good as well as wood wind, and all the brasses lack is self confidence. Few conductors would have attempted the program with such a hole in the orchestra. It required not only expert musicianship but instant adaptability and ingenuity, and thanks to Conductor Muller, the orchestral numbers were still a success.

Only one movement of the Jupiter Symphony was possible, but that was so played as to bring out all of the true Mozartian beauty of the work.

It was impossible for the orchestra, in its diluted form, to accompany Signor Laurenti, so that task, a pretty big one, fell to Harry P. Dodge, and he measured up to the job

And perhaps Laurenti was the most remarkable feature of all evening. A slight almost ascetic appearing young man—not at all the florid, rotund and romance-shattering grand opera singer—possessed of that charm of personality which goes with a refined, serious characterful individuality, Mario Laurenti won his audience before he even began to sing. And in the singing, he held his audience spell-bound, as they listened to his beautiful, rich, musical baritone voice, under apparently perfect control, and used in connection with the fine interpretation of a very real artist Moreover, Laurti is a peculiarly gifted linguist, whose enunciation, in whatever language he sings, is delightfully clear and exquisite

He sang the "Vision Fugitive" the Aria from Massenet's "Herodiade," with such complete mastery as it is seldom vouchsafed an audience to listen to. As an encore, Signor Laurenti sang a charming "Serenata," by Duzia-Peccia.

An orchestral number that delighted the audience for its grace and charm and the excellence of the performance, measuring up splendidly to the demands for fine phrasing made upon the orchestra, was the Egyptian Suite, by Luigini.

Then came a group of songs by Laurenti, that will be always a joy to recall having heard. Sunderei's "Dormi Pure," melodious, gracefully rhythmic and beautiful in content was beautifully rendered. "The Lost Hour," by Kramer, was given a serious, deep, almost spiritual interpretation that thrilled the audience, and the beauty of the artist's voice was particularly notable in Tosti's "My Dreams." The audience was tremendously enthusiastic over Laurenti's singing, and he responded to the applause by singing the Toreador Song from "Carmen," with such fine abandon that another encore was demanded. This was "Smiles" by Landon Ronald and was beautiful in its simplicity, leaving the audience with lasting pleasure in their hearts.

Just how the orchestra ever played the March from Tannhauser, with the stirring effect they did is still a marvel. Wagner's spirit need not have been ashamed of the last number of the Symphonic Concert, a number which received the heartiest of applause from the big audience

Perhaps this concert gave the best opportunity to show appreciation of these musicians who for eight years have given their services, gratuitously, not only for the Symphony concerts but for the many Sunday afternoons devoted to rehearsals, and practically every one of whom gave his services, often to his own financial disadvantage, to assist in furnishing music, at no cost to play for going-away service men as they marched away to the world war.

But One Way is Better.

A bluff, hearty old bachelor friend of the family, trying to get on terms with the son of the house, asked him, "Have you practiced any fancy methods of skating, sonny?" "No," said sonny, "I can skate only two ways as yet." "Ah, and which are they?" "Standing up and sitting down," said sonny.

Daysman an Arbitrator.

A daysman is an arbitrator, umpire or judge. The term is of Anglo-Saxon origin and is still used in the northern part of England to describe an unofficial judge or arbitrator to whom a matter in dispute is referred. The origin of the term is obscure.

ROMANCE BECKONS TO ALL

According to Theatrical Star, Men and Women Never Really Forego Their Childhood Dreams.

"We are all more or less only grown up boys or girls," Mr. Ditrichstein said in an interview given recently to a New York Evening Sun reporter. "The less grown up we are the more we enjoy life and the thrill of living. It is this joy of human experience which makes the stage possible and which particularly aids the actor of melodrama.

"The life of the roving buccaneer of adventure or the suave cavalier with his romantic conquests is denied to most of us," Mr. Ditrichstein said almost sadly, "but there lives in us all the desire to do the rash, impossible and delightful things of our great heroes of fiction. The wizened, colorless little man you see on the commuters' train, who toils by day over his prosaic books and figures, possibly may be a d'Artagnan or a Don Quixote within the infinite realm of his nocturnal imagination. The shop girl during the daylight hours may be the reincarnation of Cleopatra or Helen of Troy over a library book during the evening. She may practice before her mirror the walk and manner of a European queen and, in extreme cases, where the imagination leaps to the highest point, even go so far as to think of herself as a queen of the movies.

"It is not too much to say," Mr. Ditrichstein said, with a sly twinkle of his buccaneering eye, "that even the famous 'tired business man' is occasionally subject to hope that there is something in life more romantic and exciting than the cutting of coupons and worry over the high cost of stenographers and other business commodities."

Disciples of "the good old days" when men and wine ran free; when dashing cavaliers plunged through the guardian moat to the castle walls and carried the lady of their hearts' desire away through the moonlit lanes of the whispering forests and matched their lances against the bravest men of the enemy forces simply for the joy of a gallant fight or to avenge a lady's honor—of such, according to the melodramatic star, is the kingdom of the orchestra and the gallery wherever melodrama is produced.

Many Useful Marine Plants.

The useful marine plants are listed by a French report to be varech, algae, brown algae and Laminaria. Varech or Zostera supply wrappings, papers and cellulose, and iodine is chiefly extracted from the algae. European countries—France, Great Britain and Norway—consume about 400,000 tons of green weed annually, an amount that could be increased from the new discoveries continually being made. The 400,000 tons of weed yield about 175 tons of iodine, 10,000 tons of potassium salts, 3,000 tons of crude sea salt, and 7,000 tons of lye; but suggestions have been made for increasing the amount of iodine and potash extracted.

A Parallel.

No Yank who ever tried to order fried eggs in a French restaurant can fail to sympathize with Maurice Maeterlinck's futile attempt to give an entire lecture in English.—The Home Sector.

Wealthy residents of Morristown, N. J., in order to get to business in Manhattan acted as firemen on a special Lackawanna train, enabling hundreds of commuters to reach New York. The volunteer firemen were cheered by mobs of passengers who drove menacing strikers from the Hoboken terminal upon the arrival of the train. The men volunteered to take the train back at night, and they did. On the step of the locomotive is [illegible] Cagan [illegible] and above are John Stedman and Alfred Maury, all of Morristown, N. J.

REPUBLICAN SUCCESS

The most significant fact developed at the meeting of the Republican state committee, and at the dinner given to its secretary, LaFayette B. Gleason, was the spirit of confidence which prevailed, committeemen from every section being optimistic over the outlook for Republican success and reporting the most harmonious feeling in the Republican ranks. What was voiced from one district was the same as that from another, that the organizations, men and women, were all working for victory in November. The words faction or group had no place in the discussions but in their stead unity was the only thought made audible.

At neither gathering was there [illegible] effort made to discuss candi[illegible] for the presidency or governor[illegible] State Chairman George A. [illegible] who was re-elected without [illegible]on, and who was compli[illegible] upon the work he has done in [illegible]ing all elements, hit the nail [illegible] head by saying that the Re[illegible]ans were not assembled to talk [illegible] but they were there to talk [illegible]ciples. This epitomized the remarks of every man who had a word to say at the meeting of the committee or at the testimonial given to Secretary Gleason at night.

It was unanimous opinion that the people of the state and nation were looking to the Republican party to restore order and re-establish an economical and efficient administration at Washington and Albany. Wild extravagance in Washington and wild ideas in the executive department at Albany were held up as reasons why the people wanted their affairs handled by Republicans. The various speakers referred to unrest for which the Democratic administration was responsible, and which is occasioned largely by procedure in opposition to that which should have been followed to assure intelligent action.

POOR METHOD.

The practice which was followed by some organizations in recent years, to threaten public officials, seems to be on the wane, notwithstanding that this year letters have been issued by an association or two composed of women who have not gotten away from the old method, which has lost its force almost entirely. There was a period when it perhaps did have some effect, but lately men in public life have refused to be brow-beaten into submission by threats, and the result has been that the people have lost nothing but on the other hand have more than likely gained.

The ordinary man in public life tries to do the best he can in the interest of the people, and if he is in a legislative position he endeavors to act in behalf of his constituents. He studies questions that come before him and is better equipped to pass on the merits of them than many who have had no experience whatever, and who are not situated so that they can acquire the sentiment of the greatest number. For this reason the legislator who reaches a conclusion which he believes is right does more for the people by acting upon it than he does by obeying threats of those who are not qualified to render sane opinion.

Under the circumstances it would seem wise for the associations of women who are yet working along this line to abandon it and take up the more satisfactory course which is intelligent argument. In this respect Mrs. Leolla R. North of Plattsburg recently said that now that women have the vote they must have the facts when they go before legislative committees for sex will not do it all. "We have equal rights," said she, "and we must indicate equal brains. Threats will accomplish nothing and should not be tolerated by any organization of women which expects to make any headway."

The disturbers of this country's peace have astonishing "nerve," particularly when they are women and count on their sex to protect them. Testifying in behalf of her own petition for a habeas corpus writ to stay the decree of deportation issued against her and eleven others of her [illegible], Mrs. Amy Colyer, secretary of the Massachusetts branch of the Communist party, boldly declared: "We believe in organizing society as it was brought about in Russia. Revolution has no terrors. It all depends when, in the opinion of the majority of the workers, the time is ripe."

SAUGERTIES.

Saugerties, April 19—Sunday afternoon Snyder Hose and the Cornwell's Hose Company's responded to an alarm caused by fire in the barn of Peter D. Curley on lower Partition street. The prompt use of chemicals enabled them to rescue two horses and a cow that were in danger of being burned, and confined the loss to a small damage.

Miss Blanche Ziegler of New York city, spent the week end with her parents on West Bridge street.

Harold Rivenburgh of Hudson was a Saugerties visitor on Sunday.

The E. J. Lewis House on Partition street has been sold to John A. Burns of Cementon.

ESOPUS.

Esopus, April 19.—Quite a number from this village attended the New York conference in Kingston. The services on Sunday, April 11, were particularly enjoyed.

Rev. George E. Wright, the newly appointed pastor of Port Ewen and Esopus, preached in the Methodist Church, Esopus, on Sunday afternoon, to an appreciative audience. The new pastor made a very favorable impression upon the members of his future parish and it is to be hoped that a large congregation will greet him next Sunday.

Hereafter the hours of service will be as follows: Sunday school at 1:30. Preaching service, 2:30. Epworth League devotional meeting, 7. Prayer meeting Wednesday evenings, 7:30. This week the prayer meeting will be held at the home of Rev. R. M. Roberts at the above hour Wednesday evening. Probably the service in future will be at the church and the pastor will be present each week.

Rev. G. W. Budd motored to his new appointment (Kerhonkson) on Saturday. He will return to Esopus to make ready his household goods for transportation to his future charge. Mr. Budd and family will go to their new home accompanied by the best wishes of friends for their future success and prosperity.

Miss Madeline Holla, daughter of Rev. Charles A. Holla, assistant superintendent Metropolitan District Anti-Saloon League, New York, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Goodrich for several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Beaver have moved to their new home in Port Ewen. While the people of this village and vicinity are extremely sorry to lose such good neighbors and friends they are pleased to have them located so near their old home.

The birthday of Mrs. Emory Freer was recently very pleasantly celebrated by a surprise party given by her children. As Mrs. Freer is an invalid the affair was a quiet one but a thoroughly good time was enjoyed by both the mother and family.

Miss Florence Booth has so far recovered from her recent illness as to be able to accompany her sister, Mrs. Albert Edgson, to her home in Staten Island. Miss Booth will probably remain with her sister until fully convalescent.

Clifford Ackert has given up his position in New York city and will spend the summer in Esopus where he has a good position.

Miss Bessie House was a guest of her sister, Mrs. Leslie Mott, on Sunday and attended the services at the Methodist Church.

Augie Carooni will remain at home this summer instead of retaining his position in Poughkeepsie and will be employed by John J. House.

Miss Madeline Holla and Mrs. Louis C. Goodrich spent Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Goodrich's mother, Mrs. S. E. Mott.

The Rt. Rev. Hiram Hulse, Bishop of Cuba, will administer the apostolic rite of confirmation at All Saints' Episcopal Church on Thursday, April 22, at 7:30 p. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Chauncey and Morris DeWitt are driving team for the R. & C. I. Lefever firm.

Henry Moore's services have been in great demand, assisting in moving and various occupations.

Peter Konen, 65 years old, died at his home April 4, after some months of illness. About forty years ago Mr. Konen was miller at the Clearwater & Martin cement mill. The funeral was held April 8 from St. Peter's Church, where a High Mass of Requiem was sung. Among the floral tributes was a handsome spray of Easter and calla lilies from the employes of the Konski shirt factory, through Miss Viola Moore. Deceased leaves his wife, two daughters, Mary and Cynthia, three sons, Frederic, Peter and August, both discharged from service, and a brother, Caspar, in New York city. The family have the profound sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

NEPONSET ROOFS

Save Time, Labor and Nails

Neponset Twin Shingles and American Twin Shingles are really two shingles in one. They are self-spacing. They are easily picked up and laid with one hand. TWO shingles are laid at one operation. One-third less nails.

Neponset Twin Shingles, 20 in. x 12¾ in., and American Twin Shingles, 20 in. x 10 in., are impregnated with asphalt and surfaced with slate. Colors — natural slate-red and slate-green.

They will not catch fire from falling sparks. The American Twin Shingle is not quite so long as the Neponset Twin Shingle—this saving of material makes a saving in cost.

The Dirt You Cannot See

No true housekeeper is satisfied with mere surface cleanliness. The family's health and her own peace of mind demands the complete removal of hidden dirt with its lurking germs as well as that which can readily be seen on the surface.

Dirt cannot resist the powerful, purifying air stream of the Royal. It gets all the dirt on the rug, deep down in the rug and even underneath.

Draperies, furniture, walls, ceilings, moldings and the "out-of-the-way" corners and crannies all quickly and easily yield their toll of dirt and dust to the Royal, which cleans by air—alone!

FUND NEEDED TO FIGHT REMOVAL

$500 to be Raised to Pay Martin S. Decker to Act For Protesting Citizens in Trolley Track Matter—Colonial Line Abandonment Story a Wild Rumor.

At the indignation meeting held Monday evening at the court house for the purpose of discussing plans and forming some systematic opposition to the propsed removal of the trolley tracks from Washington avenue, it was voted to secure the services of Martin S. Decker of Albany and New Paltz to act for the protesting citizens before the public service commission In order to defray expenses of such services a fund of $500 will be raised by subscriptions to pay all costs. Any member of the executive committee or any member of the legal advisory board will take subscriptions from citizens who wish to assist in this matter.

The meeting was called to order in the court room by Judge James Jenkins, chairman, who said he had examined the petition of the trolley company which had been filed in Albany with the public service commission Judge Jenkins referred to the action which had been taken by the common council against the removal of the tracks on Washington avenue and stated that in spite of the fact that the common council opposed the removal of the tracks still there was a fight ahead for the people of the city of they would retain the service which they are entitled to from the trolley company He said that the trolley company would bring to light some very powerful arguments in favor of the removal of the tracks and unless there was opposition, strong opposition, the tracks would be removed It is up to the people of the city to appear before the representative of the public service commission who will be at the court house on May 5 at 10 a m and strongly oppose the application of the trolley company At that time it must be shown that the trolley system now on Washington avenue is necessary for the hundreds of people who own property in that section of the city, and show that the majority of people in that section of the city bought property and built because of the trolley service in that section

Judge Jenkins spoke of the rumor which has been circulated in town to the effect that if the Washington avenue line is not abandoned at this time, the entire Colonial line would have to be abandoned He referred to this as being without justification or without foundation

Mr Decker's name was presented as one who would take up the fight for the citizens of Kingston in the matter and on motion of John W Eckert, the executive committee was authorized to employ him Mr Decker is thoroughly familiar with this line of legal practice and will ably represent the people before the public service commission He will be in Kingston Wednesday to consult with the local attorneys in the matter who have volunteered their services

John E Mahar was elected treasurer to handle the funds which will be raised.

Mayor Canfield was called upon to express his opinion in the matter and urged that at the public hearing in this city on May 5 there be a large attendance for if only a few came out and opposed the removal of the tracks the evidence which the railroad company would present would far outweigh the opposition and the tracks would be removed In referring to the Washington avenue branch Mayor Canfield said that it was a grave mistake on the part of the company to remove the tracks Once the Washington avenue line is amputated to save the rest of the system it will be one amputation after another until the entire system is cut away

A number of other interested citizens spoke against the removal of the tracks and at the close of the meeting several subscriptions were taken for the fund Many of the people present who had not signed the protest petition did so last evening, as there are now about 1 400 names on the petition

The following members of the executive committee and the legal advisory committee will accept subscriptions to the legal fund. John E Mahar, treasurer, Judge Jenkins chairman J Charles Snyder Abraham V DeGraff Joseph Murray, Alderman Frank Meyer and Alderman W E Martin the executive committee

Judge James Betts Frank W Brooks John W Eckert Daniel B [illegible] [illegible] Hasbrouck Milton Auchmoody D G Atkins Henry R DeWitt Newton H Fessenden, the legal advisory board

WILL ASSESS CITY PROPERTY AT FULL VALUE

City Assessor Morris Block Will Shortly Start Work of Viewing Property Preparatory to Laying Assessment—A 20 Per Cent Increase.

City property which is now assessed at about 75 per cent valuation will next year be assessed at full value, according to the plans of City Assessor Morris Block, who will shortly start work of viewing properties preparatory to laying the assessment. There will be a general increase in assessments of approximately 20 per cent.

It is claimed that the increase will not add to the amount of the city tax, however, owing to the new state income tax law, whereby one-half of the money collected by the state will be returned to localities in accordance with assessed valuations It is stated that a much larger sum will be returned where properties are assessed at about full value instead of the usual 75 per cent

This means that the city assessor will increase all assessments about 20 per cent This will not apply to all cases, however, for where a property which has been assessed at $4,000 is bought for $7,000, it will not be assessed at $4,500, or 20 per cent over the old assessment, but at the new valuation of $7,000

There have been about five hundred changes in real estate in Kingston so far this year, according to the city assessor, and he will have a big job on his hand in laying the new assessment

City Assessor Block believes that by increasing the valuation and reducing the rate the tax will remain the same, as though no change had been made in the assessment He figures, however, that the tax rate should be lower on account of more money being received from the state under the income tax law

Whether the city assessor is correct in his assumption time alone will tell.

SEVERE 'QUAKE IN MEXICO

By Telegraph to The Freeman

Mexico City, April 19, (Delayed)—A severe earthquake shock was felt here at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Telegrams from Orizaba stated that the shocks were felt in that district and elsewhere in the state of Vera Cruz simultaneously.

Residents of this city were greatly alarmed and reports became current that the volcano Popocatepetl had become active Smoke and flames have been pouring from the crater of the volcano in increasing volume during the past few days.

It was feared that the earthquake had caused serious damage and perhaps great loss of life in the same district of Vera Cruz that was visited several months ago, but it was impossible to get definite and detailed information because of the interruption to telegraphic communication.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman

New York, April 20.—Prices continued under pressure at the opening of the stock market today, opening quotations showing losses of from fractions to 6 points Steel Common yielded to 103⅞, Baldwin Locomotive 2⅞ to 133⅝ and Crucible Steel 4 points to 252. General Motors dropped 11 points to 320, while the certificates sold off 1 point to 32⅛ Studebaker fell 2 points to 116. Mexican Petroleum was weakest of the oil shares, yielding 3 points to 190⅛, while Pan-American Petroleum fell 2 points to 105½ and Royal Dutch 1 point to 111¼. The shipping stocks were in supply, Atlantic Gulf losing 3 points to 164, American International 1¼ to 98 and Marine Preferred 1 point to 92½ Fractional losses were sustained in the copper and railroad issues

The unsettlement in the market became more pronounced after the start when western houses became unusually heavy sellers Losses ranged from 1 to 6 points

The drop in the call money rate to 6 per cent caused a rallying tendency in the market during the afternoon.

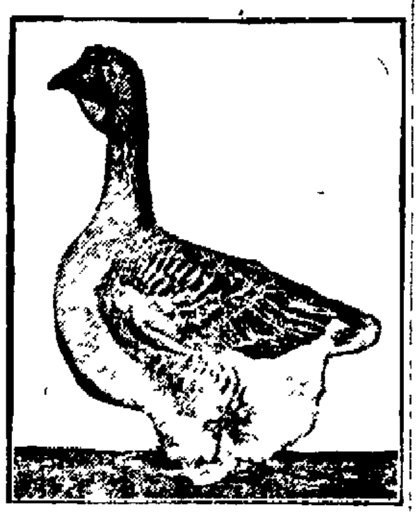
POULTRY

DIFFERENT BREEDS OF GEESE

Toulouse, Embden, Chinese and African Are Easily the Most Popular in This Country.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Six breeds of geese have been admitted to the American standard of perfection, namely: Toulouse, Embden, Chinese, African, Wild or Canadian, and Egyptian. In addition to the standard breeds there is the so-called Mongrel goose, which is a hybrid made by crossing one of these varieties or the common goose with wild geese. Crosses of the varieties of geese, especially of the Toulouse and Embden, are occasionally made, but without any apparent gain. The Toulouse, Embden, Chinese, and African are easily the most popular breeds of geese in this country, the first two greatly leading the other breeds. All economic breeds of geese are kept primarily for the production of flesh and feathers, and although their eggs are occasionally used for culinary purposes on the farm there is no demand for them for food purposes in the markets.



Toulouse Gander.

The Toulouse, the largest of the standard breeds of geese, is a good layer, producing from 20 to 35 eggs a year, is docile, grows rapidly, and makes a good market bird. However, its dark pinfeathers make it a slightly less attractive market goose than the Embden.

The Embden, a large, white goose, slightly smaller and with somewhat longer legs than the Toulouse, is only a fair layer and is usually less prolific than the Toulouse. This breed has white pinfeathers, is a rapid grower and matures early.

The African, a gray goose with a distinct brown shade, about the size of the Embden, is a good layer and makes a good market goose, although it has the objectionable dark pinfeathers. It is a rapid grower and matures early.

There are two standard varieties of Chinese geese, the brown and the white. Both varieties mature early and are said to be prolific layers and rapid growers, but shy and rather difficult to handle.

The wild goose is bred to some extent in captivity, and the young are sold to hunters to use as decoys. The wild gander is used to cross with either the common or the purebred goose, producing the so-called Mongrel goose. This Mongrel goose is highly prized as a market goose, but is sterile and cannot be bred.

The Egyptian goose is a small, brightly-colored goose kept for ornamental purposes and rarely seen in this country. It resembles the wild goose in shape and weighs two pounds less in each class.

POULTRY NOTES

Do not overcrowd the houses, brood coops, brooder or colony coops.

• • •

Everything must be kept clean in warm weather to keep vermin down.

• • •

Turkey hens usually lay about fifteen eggs before beginning to get broody.

• • •

Poultry can endure warm weather just as well as they can freezing weather.

• • •

In rainy cold weather young chicks should be kept where it is dry and warm.

• • •

Put the brooder for early little chicks in a dry, sunny clean place where there are no lice or mites.

• • •

It doesn't pay to try to rear the very early chicks in out-door brooders unless these brooders are under a shed.

• • •

Soft-shelled eggs are often caused by the fowls being confined, becoming overfat, and from lack of mineral matter.

• • •

Be sure that the windows in the south side of the poultry house are wide open on all bright, sunny days to let in the health-giving pure air.

ALL'S FAIR

By R. RAY BAKER

(©, 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Here's a story about a nurse who didn't marry a patient. Graduated from Sanburn Memorial hospital in the big city, with an engraved, herb-boned diploma, and an R. N. after her name, Suse Hopewell accepted a position as superintendent of Belleview hospital in the small city of Rushington, and there she met David Kling.

David had never been sick a day in his life, except with the mumps and measles when he was a youngster. Nevertheless, when he saw Suse Hopewell, David decided that he needed a nurse, not because Suse was a nurse, but because Suse was Suse, and her being a nurse was just incidental.

David was proprietor of a jewelry-phonograph-sewing machine-camera store, and he first saw Suse when she entered the place on business. The business was the purchase of a sewing machine badly needed at the hospital.

Now David was a very ingenious young man, albeit somewhat reserved and backward when it came to the business of wooing. The moment he saw Suse step into the store the little engine that operated on his left side began to work queerly. As he walked toward the prospective customer he was afraid its bumping would frighten her. However, she seemed quite composed and he came to the conclusion that perhaps she had not noticed the unusual sound.

In stories all nurses are pretty, and this one is no exception in that regard. Suse had big eyes that usually appeared gray, but at times seemed shaded with deep blue. She was neither slender, short, tall nor chunky. Her hair was light brown, and while it could not be called luxuriant, there was enough of it, without paid-for additions, to be done up in a business-like, nevertheless attractive, coiffure.

"I Need a Sewing Machine."

"I need a sewing machine," Suse said, and David stopped staring and suddenly remembered what she was there for.

Once out of his daze, he tried to cover the fact that he had been in one by rapid monologue, which was rather inane, but served to make up for the time he had consumed in staring at Suse.

Suse selected a machine and paid for it, requesting that it be sent to the hospital, and after she left David drifted into a waking dream. Suse certainly got a bargain when she bought that machine, for a young man's heart was thrown in without extra charge.

The apparent hopelessness of his dream brought David out of it.

"I'm a goner," he half groaned. "But what's the use? I don't know her and there's no chance of getting acquainted unless I get sick, and then the store would go to ruin, and who wants to marry a bankrupt man? Besides, I might as well admit that I haven't enough nerve to go after her."

However, as has been said, David was an ingenious young man, and it was not long before his brain got to work on a scheme which had for its object the forming of Suse Hopewell's acquaintance, and, some distance in the future, the marrying of her.

Two sewing machines were to be delivered on the same trip, and a short time before the driver of the flivver called for them David might have been seen busy with a screwdriver about the mechanism of the one ordered by the superintendent of Belleview hospital. He might have been seen thus engaged, but he took pains to make sure that he was not.

He watched the machines leave on the truck and with a queer glitter in his eyes began straightening up the phonograph record racks.

There were no developments that day, but the next afternoon David received a call from Belleview hospital.

"The new machine I bought of you doesn't work," said a sweetly familiar voice on the wire. "I need it right now, so please send some one in a hurry to fix it."

Some one went in a hurry. David went himself.

Suse ushered him into the presence of the obstinate machine, and he produced a screwdriver from his tool bag to remedy the trouble, of which he was the cause.

"You won't need that," smiled Suse. "It's something about the belt that's wrong."

With surprise David noted that her statement was true. Something was wrong with the belt, and the bobbin, which he intended should have become balky, worked smoothly.

As he busied himself repairing the belt, David managed to entice Suse into conversation, and when he left he felt that he had made some progress, although he was still mystified. The mystery was solved when he got back and learned that a man had been sent out to Joseph Freedman's home to repair a new machine.

"The delivery man got them mixed." David decided; but he was just as well pleased, for the broken belt had served its purpose as effectively as the bobbin might have done.

Thus did David Klinger and Suse Hopewell get acquainted, and, encouraged by his progress of the first day, David summoned enough courage to invite Suse to attend the theater with him.

Suse seemed to welcome his attentions, and soon he was calling on her with considerable regularity. Three months after the purchase of the sewing machine that had served to guide their destinies, they became engaged.

"Isn't it wonderful," he observed one night, "what little things serve to bring a man and woman together?"

"Yes," she agreed. "I once heard of a man who met his fate just because a strong wind blew a hat from a young lady's head, and he ran after it for her."

"That case is no stranger than ours," said David. "Just a little sewing machine did the business. Do you know that I fell in love with you the day you came into my store to buy the machine? And do you know that I deliberately damaged a sewing machine so that I might get acquainted with you?"

"You damaged my machine?" she inquired, evidently perplexed.

"Well, no, I didn't. I damaged another one by mistake—fixed the bobbin so it wouldn't work. As it happened, my strategy proved unnecessary, thanks to the accidental breaking of the belt on your machine."

Suse smiled. There was a queer, rather mischievous twinkle in her eyes.

"Yes, it was strange," she admitted. "I suppose you figured all was fair in love. Well, now I'll make a confession of my own. I fell in love with you the day I stepped into your store."

"I never suspected it," he exclaimed.

"I didn't intend that you should," she said. "But my heart was bumping so hard when you advanced to wait on me that I feared you would hear it.

"I also believed that all was fair in love," she went on after a brief pause. "In fact, I deliberately broke that belt—so I could have you fix it."

QUEER METHODS OF FISHING

In Palestine They Do Not Use Nets and Would Laugh at a Hook and Line.

The modern Palestine dweller tells us that he would now look in vain for boats "launching out into the deep," and working nets all night in the Sea of Galilee. Not that the fish have disappeared; they are to be caught there in millions, as also in the Jordan and Jabbock; but the Arabs, less accustomed to systematic work than the Jews of old, follow easier plans—the simplest of which is throwing poisoned bits of meal cake into the water, and then wading in to make a collection, a custom of which no other nation is like to rob them.

Another way of doing the work is by pelting the fish with stones, which can be done very profitably when the schools of yellow musht congregate. Some of the Bedouins, probably taking example by travelers, fire charges of small shot among them, and so get a bag; so thick are these schools that it is even said that a revolver bullet has been known to kill three fish.

Hook and line may be found very occasionally, but, as a rule, when the practices above are not resorted to, the fishing is done by small dip nets or large hand nets; in the former case the fishermen, standing on the banks, lower a kind of bird net which can be closed by the pulling of a rope, from racks or wooden platforms, and hauled up at intervals of an hour or so. Where the hand net is in use—it is a kind of cross between a butterfly and shrimp net—the fisherman wades in up to his waist with a bag on his shoulder, and is content to catch the fish one or two at a time. The fish of the Syrian waters are of many different species, but few are peculiar to the country.—Exchange.

Phenomenon Caused Alarm.

It is recorded in the Gentlemen's Magazine that on January 8, 1736, at four o'clock in the afternoon, at Tuam, in Ireland, an unusual light, far above that of the brightest day, struck all the beholders with amazement. It then faded away by invisible degrees; but at seven, from west to east, a "sea of streamers" appeared across the sky, undulating like the waters of a rippling stream. A general feeling of alarm was excited by this phenomenon. The streamers gradually became dissolved, and flashed away to the north, attended by a shock which all felt, but which did no damage. The affair seems to have been an example of Aurora Borealis, only singular in its being bright enough to tell upon the daylight.

Advises Ordinary Buttermilk for Wrinkles and Enlarged Pores

This Good Looking Young Woman Uses Old Time Recipe of Buttermilk Cream in a New Way—A Gentle Massage With Fingers Before Retiring All That is Necessary.

The old-time application of Buttermilk Cream to whiten and preserve the skin and remove harsh little wrinkles and ugly sallowness is grandmother's recipe and women throughout the country are again using it to insure a beautiful complexion and snow white hands and arms.

Buttermilk, however, is not always obtainable, but a specialist has at last perfected a method of concentrating buttermilk and combining it with a perfect cream which you can buy in small quantities ready to use at any first class drug store by simply asking for "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream.

There is no secret about it nor is there any doubt about the result—it's just common ordinary buttermilk in the form of a wonderful cream, gently massaged with the finger tips around the corners of the eyes and mouth. Howard Bros. Chemical Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOURTEEN POINTS FOR GARDENERS

Here are "fourteen points" for the gardener as enunciated by the workers in vegetable gardening at the State College of Agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y.:

1. Be slow to condemn a garden site because of poor soil, but insist on at least six hours of sunlight. Shade is the most common cause of failure in town gardens.

2. Do not start gardening too early. The first warm days in spring bring out the inexperienced gardener, and frosts are likely to destroy his enthusiasm as well as his crops. Early spring energy is better devoted to a general cleaning up of the garden site.

3. The making of raised beds except on wet lands is a waste of time and energy. Moreover, they dry out quickly and suffer in times of drouth. Plant on the level.

4. Scatter seeds thinly; they are often planted too thick. Seed is thus wasted, and unless the plants are thinned promptly, as is not often the case, they will suffer from crowding.

5. Do not plant too deeply. This is a very common mistake, especially with small seeds.

6. Beginners are likely to water their gardens unwisely. More hoeing and less watering would usually give better moisture conditions. Frequent light watering causes the surface to bake and draws the roots toward the surface where they later dry out and perish. If watering is really needed, do it thoroughly so that the ground is soaked; loosen the surface as soon as it dries sufficiently and then do no more watering for a week or so.

7. Do not plant crops requiring much space like potatoes, corn and vine squashes in small gardens. Bush types of summer squash may be grown.

8. For very poor soils, beans are the best bet, with tomatoes second best. When in doubt, plant beans.

9. Onion sets are sure to give results, but onions from seed should not be attempted unless the gardener has some experience and a good soil.

10. Beets are perhaps the easiest root crop to grow. Carrots are not difficult if they can be nursed through the early stages. They must be planted shallow, and there is always danger of stiff soils baking over them before they germinate. Boards laid over the row will help to keep the soil moist, but they must be removed promptly when the seedlings begin to break through. Swiss chard is the most easily grown and the most productive of the plants used for greens. A six or eight foot row is enough.

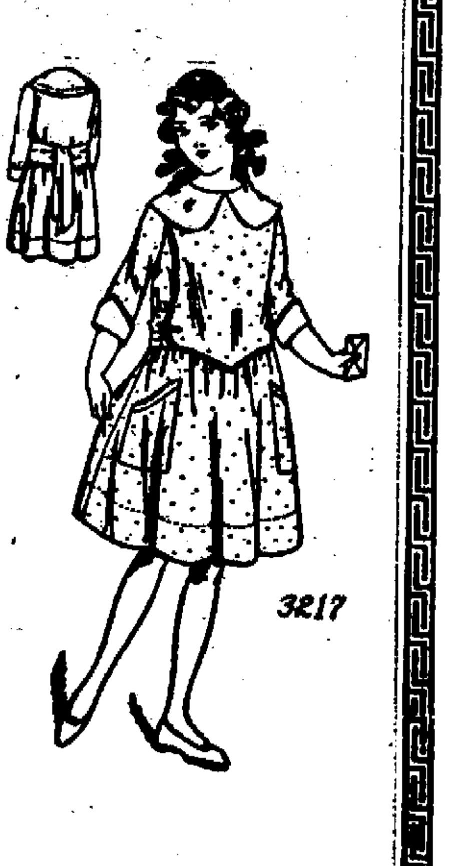
11. More lettuce and radishes are likely to be planted than the family will use. Half the home garden radishes are wasted each year.

12. If you have more string beans than you can use let them ripen and save them for winter. In spite of a very general popular belief to the contrary, dry colored beans are as good as white both in flavor and nutritive value.

13. An offensive campaign against weeds, which destroys them while young, is better for the morale of the gardener than a defensive campaign against those that are old and tough.

14. In the hot days of midsummer the percentage of mortality among home gardens is very great.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.



3217—A Good School Dress.

Pattern 3217 was employed for this attractive style. It is cut in sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size will require 4⅝ yards of 36 inch material.

Gingham, percale, seersucker, linen, voile, gabardine, chambray, crepe and poplin would be attractive for this style.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or 1c and 2c stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Catalogue Notice.

Send 10c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer 1920 Catalogue, containing 550 designs of Ladies', Misses', and Children's Patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

SHOKAN.

Shokan, April 19.—Francis Gunter of New York is spending a few days in town.

William Harlow has moved into the house with Edwin Jones. The Dibbell farm house which Mr. Harlow vacated will be occupied by Floyd Goldman and family.

Ex-Sheriff Boice is rushing the erection of his portable saw mill near the foot of Tice Ten Eyck mountain. Loren and Sidney Barley and Fred Guinac are among those working on the job.

Those tappers who were not in too much of a hurry to take up their buckets were well repaid as the second run of sap was as good as the first. Men from Delaware county say that last Tuesday was their first good day. Maple syrup and sugar is worth something this year.

The city plans the erection of a big garage at Brown's. Looks like there was another job of some kind ahead as Father Knickerbocker already has two garages in town.

During the embargo on eggs they piled up pretty fast at the local station. Now we understand they are shipping them by parcel post. The farmers from the southern part of the town produce lots of eggs but we doubt if there is one man on the north shore who ships eggs by the case.

Benjamin Van Steenburgh of Kingston has been in town a few days looking after his property here. We understand that Mr. Van Steenburgh would like to sell his house on the hill which is a fine residence equipped with modern improvements.

Mrs. W. Barnes is stopping at Mrs. I. H. Dumont's.

Mrs. George Toebic and children of Brooklyn are visiting Mrs. Toebic's sister, Mrs. Frank Barringer.

Mrs. Egbert Lasher of Brown's Station has moved into Burr Elmendorf's house on Main street.

Fred Thiel who has been in an army hospital is visiting his mother, Mrs. Margaret Thiel.

Fred Adsit has returned from a trip to his home in Gloversville.

A big truck passed through here Friday night enroute to Roxbury from New Haven. The truck had a cargo of creamery machinery aboard.

Elder J. K. DuBois attended the Reformed Classis in Roxbury.

April 15, 1848.—J. D. Merrithew badly hurt and died of his injuries the following day.

April 12, 1852.—Elizabeth Bloom died, aged 22 years. Funeral services the following day conducted by Rev. Mr. Dyckman of the M. E. Church.

April 15, 1854.—Snow fell to a depth of 14 inches and on the 17th there came down 8 inches more. (Don't get down hearted, that was years and years ago.)

April 11, 1862.—Death of C. J. Elmendorf. Funeral held the morning of the 13th in the Baptist Church of Olive.

April 16, 1862.—For the first time since the bridge over the Esopus was washed away the preceding fall the creek was too high to ford. (So no doubt the good folks stayed on their own side of the creek as they do now to a great extent. Had the town officials been on the job a few years ago we might have a bridge across the water today and the people of the two Shokans might not now be all but strangers to one another.)

April 8, 1862.—Funeral of Mrs. Abby Krom who died on the 6th, also the burial of John W. Markle and George Roosa who died in the army on January 11 and January 17 respectively.

UNION CENTER.

Union Center, April 19.—Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Schoonmaker called on S. Coutant and family Saturday evening.

Mrs. Bertha Hendrickson of Brooklyn is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Van Aken and daughter, Hester, called on Mr. and Mrs. A. Eckert and daughter, Harriet, Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. Appeldoorn and the Ladies' Missionary Society extend an invitation to this community to attend the prayer meeting at the Port Ewen Reformed Church, Thursday evening, April 22. Mr. Eckerson, a missionary from China, will be one of the speakers.

Clifford Eckert of New York city visited his uncle, Jesse Fitzgerald, Saturday.

A. Van Etten and family visited Mr. and Mrs. C. Warren Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Schoonmaker accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. L. Freer and daughter, Bessie enjoyed a ride around the Ashokan reservoir Sunday afternoon.

Joseph T. Wells and family visited Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Wells Sunday.

Mrs. S. Coutant and daughter, visited Mr. and Mrs. M. Cole at Ulster Park Sunday.

A number from this place attended the movies at "Binghams," Esopus Saturday evening.

J. Fitzgerald and family visited D. Atkins and family at Butlerville, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. D. Farrell of Port Ewen visited C. Wells and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Mott and daughter, Norma of Esopus visited Mr. and Mrs. P. Proper, Sunday.

Mrs. E. Richard and Mrs. L. Freer called on Mrs. M. Corby Saturday.

Mrs. Arthur Slater and daughter called on Mrs. Fred Proper Sunday afternoon.

GOOD FURNITURE IS AN INVESTMENT NOT AN EXPENDITURE

When you choose good furniture for your home you are making an investment that will pay real dividends in satisfaction for many years to come—unlike most things—furniture is bought to last a lifetime or more.

What a splendid tribute to the judgment of those that preceded us that so much of the early furniture has descended to us as prized heirlooms, enduring and mellow with the passing time. Will the furniture you are buying now also have the same splendid qualities? It surely will if you choose worth-while furniture—the only kind this store sells.

GREGORY & COMPANY

The Aftermath of Flu

This is No. 1 of a series of advertisements, prepared by a competent physician, explaining how certain diseases which attack the air passages—such as Pneumonia, Influenza, Whooping Cough, Measles or even a long continued Cold—often leave these organs in an inflamed, congested state, thus affording a favorable foothold for invading germs. And how Vick's VapoRub may be of value in this condition.

Your doctor will impress upon you that following recovery from the active stage of influenza, there often remains an inflamed, congested condition of the air passages—throat, larynx, bronchial tubes and lungs.

Frequently the cough hangs on—soreness of the chest persists—you take cold easily and there may be obstinate catarrh. This condition is slow to clear up and if neglected may favor the development of pneumonia, or later on, serious disease of the lungs.

Such cases should continue under the care of their physician—should exercise moderately in the open air—eat plenty of wholesome food—avoid overwork and sudden chills.

Nightly applications of Vick's VapoRub may help nature to complete the process of repair. Because Vicks acts locally by stimulation thru the skin to draw out the inflammation, attract the blood away from the congested spots and relieve the cough. In addition, the medicinal ingredients of Vicks are vaporized by the body heat. These vapors are breathed in all night long, thus bringing the medication to bear directly upon the inflamed areas.

Vicks should be rubbed in over the throat and chest until the skin is red—then spread on thickly and covered with hot flannel cloths. Leave the clothing loose around the neck and the bed clothes arranged in the form of a funnel so the vapors arising may be freely inhaled. If the cough is annoying, swallow a small bit of Vicks the size of a pea.

Samples to new users will be sent free on request to the Vick Chemical Company, 231 Broad Street, Greensboro, N. C.

Less Than a Nickel a Week

This is all that Swift & Company's profit cost the average American family in 1919.

Here are the figures and authorities for them.

The average consumption of meat per person for a year is about 180 pounds (U. S. Government).

The average American family is 4½ persons (U. S. Census).

Swift & Company's profit from all sources in 1919 averaged less than ¼ cent per pound on all products including meat.

This averages for the family less than the price of—

1 cigar per week for father, or
1 street car fare per week for mother, or
1 package of gum per week for the children.

The complex service which we furnish the public is efficient and economical. The cost to the public in the shape of profit is too small to be noticeable in the family meat bill.

Car Tracks Wear Tires.

The severest wear on solid tires is caused by driving on the car tracks, according to an official of a rubber company, quoted by the Scientific American. He says that when on the tracks wear of the load is concentrated on a limited portion of the tread, so that it is overloaded and quickly worn away; besides, a sharp pointed frog may actually cut a piece off the tire just as a knife would.

Early United States Coins.

The office of the director of the mint says that the earliest coins were authorized by act of congress of April 2, 1792. This act authorized the manufacture of the ten dollar gold eagle, half eagle, quarter eagle, and the silver dollar, half dollar, quarter dollar, dime and half dime. It would be impossible to state which were minted first, as they were all coined about the same time.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, April 19.—At the Reformed Church on Sunday the pastor, Rev. Walter S. Maines, delivered two very able sermons. The theme of the morning sermon was "The Grace of Liberality." Subject of evening address, "Our Un-American Revolution."

The Classis of Orange will meet in regular spring session in the Ellenville Reformed Church on Tuesday, April 20, at 11 o'clock. Elders' minutes not presented last fall should be presented for examination at this meeting.

The April meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the Reformed Church held at the home of Mrs. R. C. Cox on Market street Thursday afternoon, April 15, was of unusual interest to the large number attending. Mrs. Henry Honegger, of the Arcot Mission, was present and gave a very interesting description of her work in India. At the close of the talk over $26 were contributed to the fund for mission work.

Past Deputy Chief Haymaker Charles H. Graham at the recent convocation of Napanog Haymakers' Association raised the following to their hitching posts stalls and bins: Chief haymaker, W. A. Heath; assistant, George L. Rode; past chief haymaker, C. H. Graham; overseer, Raymond Kirby; keeper of bundles, John D. Miller; collector of straws, Garry Brown; boss driver, Edwin T. Smith; hornblower, Roy Sheeley; guard of hayloft, Ray Van Keuren; guard of barn door, Chester Bradford. After installation ice cream and cake were served.

At St. Mary's Church on Sunday the Holy Name Society received Holy Communion at 8 o'clock. The Forty Hours' Devotion opened with High Mass at 10:45. Evening devotions were held Sunday and Monday evenings. Closing devotion Tuesday evening at 7:30.

The regular services were held at the M. E. Church on Sunday. A large congregation was present to greet their pastor, Rev. Charles A. Dann, on his return to the church for another year. The theme for morning thought was "Thoroughly Furnished unto Every Good Work." Part of the sermon was taken by the pastor and second part of discourse taken by Rev. George H. Smith. The entire discourse was enjoyed to the profit of all attending. At the evening service the theme of the pastor's able discourse was "The Authority of Jesus." The Epworth League meeting was led by Mrs. Orville W. Collins and the subject was "When is Courage Needed?"

The regular meeting of the Chautauqua Circle will be held at Hunt Memorial Hall Tuesday evening and the following program as arranged will be given: Piano solo, Miss Hobson; Review of Study Book, Mrs. W. C. Rose; Violin solo, Deyo Johnson, accompanist, Ellen Watson; Talk on Japan (with curios), Rev. George H. Smith; song, girls' chorus. All who have Japanese articles are requested to bring them to this meeting.

The anual meeting of the Beaver Dam Club will be held at the store of the president, Frank J. Potter, Friday evening, April 23, at 8 o'clock for election of officers and transaction of such other matters as may legally be brought before the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. David Myers of Mechanicstown are guests of James A. Myers of Maple avenue.

Mrs. Francis D. Andrews and little daughter, Dorothy, of Mineville have arrived for a visit with Ellenville relatives.

Gaylord B. Marshall and daughter, Ruth, and sisters, Miss Virginia Marshall and Mrs. William Curry of Walden, motored to Ellenville and spent the week end with relatives.

The Johns-Manville Co. has a force of men putting on the roof for the Shurter Theater Company, Inc. Rose & Douglas Company have the heating and plumbing contract and their men are on the job. The Ellenville Electric Company is in charge of the electrical work and it is being pushed ahead. The American Seating Company advise that their order for seats will be ready for shipment May 1. Leslie Shurter, who is to be manager, with his wife, have arrived in town from Poughkeepsie.

Rev. G. J. M. Ketner, of the Lutheran Church, has been given a $200 raise in salary by the church council. On Sunday he delivered two splendid sermons to large congregations. The theme of the morning sermon was "Shepherd and Flock" and theme at evening vespers at 7:30 "The Young Man in Business" (Jacob). Mrs. Ketner will entertain the ladies of the Lutheran Sewing Circle at the parsonage Tuesday afternoon.

There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting of Wawarsing Lodge, F. & A. M., Wednesday evening, April 14, when the following were made Master Masons: W. C. Derby Elting, Julius F. Wolf and E. E. Hoar, Ellenville, and DeWitt Clinton and John Osterhoudt of Wawarsing.

Miss Mabel Miller has returned from a visit with her brother, Ernest Miller, and family, at Tuxedo.

The Misses DuBois have returned to their home at Napanoch after spending the winter in Kingston.

SEAGER

Seager, April 19—The best sap run of the season in this place from April 10 to 17. Some people had gathered and stored their buckets, but were too hasty.

The Misses Reta Crook, Mary C. Kelly and Maud Jocelyn, all of Margaretville High school, spent the week end with Evadine Todd, at her home in this place.

Mrs. Ed Avery and little son, Lars are spending several days here. Mrs. Avery is packing her household goods for moving to Pepacton, where her husband has a position in a garage.

Saturday evening, Hiram Todd was pleasantly surprised by the appearance of a number of young people at his home. The evening was spent in singing and dancing. During the evening, it was announced that a wedding was to take place. At 10 o'clock to the strains of the "Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin the wedding procession filed slowly and solemnly into the parlor. There, Martha Todd and Russell Todd were joined in matrimony by the minister, Mary Kelly. Contrary to custom, not a tear was shed during the ceremony. A delightful lunch was served by the hostess and later in the evening the guests departed.

Quite a number from this place attended the funeral of Mrs. Hannah Knapp Smith at Union Grove on Saturday, April 17. Mrs. Smith was formerly Mrs. Hannah Knapp and a resident of this place. She was the wife of Charles Knapp, superintendent for George J. Gould who died several years ago, later she was married to John Smith of Uniondale, Pennsylvania and has resided there until the time of her death. She will ever be remembered with love by many in this place. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, three daughters, Lena, Luella and Linden, three sisters, two brothers and an aged father, Robert Haynes. her funeral was held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Robert Hamer at Union Grove. Services were conducted by the Rev. Alex Braisland. Interment at Lew Beach.

Arden Graham who has been under the care of Dr. Faulkner for several days is gaining slowly.

Rev. C. H. Fanning the minister who came to this charge preached in the M. E. Church on Sunday.

Awning Burned.

The lighted end of a cigarette carelessly flipped from an open window of the office of the S. J. Hary Co., general contractors, on the second floor of Cordts Row, 290 Fair street, about 4:30 o'clock, Monday afternoon, set fire to a partly lowered awning in front of the Postal Telegraph office. Wiltwyck Chemical Company was notified at Firemen's Hall nearby and the flames were quickly extinguished. The awning was wrecked, but no damage was done to the building. A score or more of Freeman carrier boys, waiting for their papers at the Freeman branch office, adjoining were interested onlookers from start to finish.

NEW YORK CENTRAL LINES

New Equipment to Relieve Our Car Shortage

A RAILROAD is worth to you what it can give you in transportation service. Our system, like all the railroads of the country, is short of rolling stock, and this problem is yours as well as ours. The cost of railroad inability to handle traffic falls directly on business men, and indirectly on the public at large. A considerable element in the maintenance of the present high prices is the lack of cars for prompt and adequate movement of foodstuffs, raw materials, builders' supplies and manufactured articles.

We have arranged to acquire new equipment which will cost $48,318,300. This will include:

196 locomotives
4000 all-steel box cars
4000 coal cars
994 stock cars
250 refrigerator cars
11 mail cars
105 all-steel passenger coaches
80 all-steel baggage cars
30 milk cars
12 all-steel combination cars
15 multiple unit electric passenger cars
12 all-steel dining cars

We are rebuilding 1000 coal cars now out of service, at a cost of approximately $2,000,000, adding that number of 55-ton all-steel coal cars to our equipment. It is hoped to have a large part of this new rolling stock in service next fall.

WE would like to buy more equipment. We need it and your business next fall will require it, if handled according to the standard of our service before the war. But with the money market as it is at present, and with expenditures of $50,000,000 more contemplated for improvements and extension of facilities which also will have to be financed by borrowing, we are not in position now to order more than the equipment we have contracted for.

RAILROADS today are the bottle-neck of the industrial world. Once they were developed beyond the demands on them. Now industry is being retarded because they cannot meet the demands. The bottle-neck must be widened or the pressure on it reduced.

It is unthinkable that industrial expansion should be checked at a time when intensive production is so urgently needed. Therefore railroad facilities must be improved and increased to be adequate to industry's ever-growing demands. This is your phase of the problem.

We submit for the serious thought of those most directly concerned, the business men of the nation, the subject of aid to railroad development by investment in railroad securities. Our lines are doing, and will do, their best to serve you. But we, as all the railroads, need the co-operation of the public.

You Know It's True!

You weren't warm last winter. You know it! And, you kept your stoves running full blast.

Toted coal and ashes, upstairs and down.
Fussed with the fires.
And, froze in one room, roasted in another.
And the coal cost! Whew!
A ONE-PIPE BENGAL FURNACE would have changed all that.
Given you genial, comforting, even heat throughout the house.
With one-third to one-half less coal.
No ash dust! No coal gas! No trouble!
It's the newest thing in heating.
Come in! We'll tell you all about it, and figure how little it will cost you.

MAXWELL

Everything that is built to endure must have fine sinews.

A great ship, a giant locomotive, a huge bridge, a gigantic building.

Search for the sinews in a Maxwell and you discover new steels, fine steels, special steels, steels manufactured to Maxwell's own formulae.

Steels, for instance, that make possible that rare combination of extreme lightness and brute strength.

For a Maxwell is made to be light in weight. Its mission is economic transportation.

Any superfluous pound to carry around means so much more cost of operation.

But the great problem was to get steels of rare quality and great strength.

They are found in a Maxwell in axles, shaftings, gears, frame, crankshaft, connecting rods, etc., etc.

They equal, pound for pound, the steels to be found in any car made.

Costly as they are, they repay their price many times over in the lifetime of a Maxwell.

They save. They pay dividends of satisfaction.

They make friends. They are responsible for that rapid rise of Maxwell the world over.

Nearly 400,000 now in use; 100,000 more in process of construction; and fully 40 per cent of those who have decided upon a Maxwell as their first-choice car will not be able to get one this year—so overwhelming is the demand for this remarkable car.

THOMPSON TO REVEALINFORMERS

But One Vote Against Expunging His Charges From Senate Record During Bitter Debate—Newspaper Men Saw No "Orgy," Says Walters.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, N. Y., April 20.—Senator George F. Thompson of Niagara today is expected to reveal to the senate judiciary committee the names of two men upon whose information he based his charges in the senate last week that the assembly was "drunk with liquor" when the five Socialists assemblymen were unseated. He was goaded to this promise in a bitter debate in the senate last night during which the senate with only one dissenting voice voted to expunge from the record Thompson's charges.

Senator Thompson flatly refused to name his informants although pressed by both Senator J. Henry Walters, Republican leader, and Senator James J. Walker, Democratic leader, unless he was assured they would not be punished. Senator Walters led the fight to have the record expunged.

During what became one of the most bitter debates the senate had ever witnessed, Senator Frederick M. Davenport of Oneida, suggested to the senate that it conduct an investigation of the charges so that the public might learn all the facts regarding the conduct of the assembly the night of the ouster.

Senator Walters during the debate told the senate that he had consulted twenty-five newspaper men, representing all the great papers of the state and that only two had said they had seen anything even approaching the "orgy" Senator Thompson described.

N. Y. FUR SALE.

Opening of Spring Auction Finds Prices Still Higher.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, April 20.—Sales reached $900,000 at the opening session of the annual spring fur auction in the Masonic Hall here yesterday, despite the fact that the selling schedule was not completed. Buyers were in attendance from London, Paris, Leipsic, Moscow, Omsk and Tokio, and also from leading cities throughout the United States and Canada. Bidding was generally active and compared with the corresponding average figures obtained at the spring auction in 1919. Average prices showed advances ranging from ten per cent on white fox to 50 per cent on stone marten. Other percentage advances follow: Fisher, 40; Baum Marten, 35; Marten, 40 and Cross Fox, 15. The sale will run for seven days more and among the chief offerings today being blue foxes, silver foxes, nutrias and otters.

"Big Bill" Haywood, leader of the Industrial Workers of the World, and W. Z. Foster, leader and organizer of the recent steel strike, who both deny any connection with the "outlaw" strike which tied up transportation throughout the country.

AT THE THEATRES

Woodrow Girls Make Hit—Vaudeville At Opera House.

The four Woodrow girls made a decided impression at Keeney's where they are booked for the entire week. Billie Burke in a light romantic comedy picture called "Wanted—A Husband" is another attraction at Keeney's tonight.

Peter Pan, the world's greatest educated pony arrived in town yesterday behind a motor car, traveling on a two wheeled cart or trailer attracting attention from hundreds of people on the streets. This is one of the big vaudeville acts secured for tonight and tomorrow at the Kingston Opera House. The other acts are Allen and Purcell in a singing and dancing number and the great Maera Company. The photoplay is a super-special starring Elaine Hammerstein in "Her Country Cousin." An entire change of program is announced for Thursday and Friday.

"Putting It Over," the Paramount feature starring Bryant Washburn, at the Auditorium tonight, is a filmization of George Weston's popular story, "The Village Cut-Up," and it was built for laughing purposes only.

The Kingston Opera House will have on Saturday matinee and night William H. Kibble's mammoth production of the immortal American drama, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The company is said to number thirty people, including negroes to add the pictures and sing and dance in the levee and other scenes. "Nothing But the Best" is the slogan of Myrkle-Harder Company opening next week at the Kingston Opera House.

At a meeting in St. Louis of the American Chemical Society Miss Irene Diner, the only woman member of the rubber section, announced that she had discovered how to tell how many miles auto tires will go. Miss Diner is 25 years old and a graduate student in New York University. She refused a $10,000 cash offer for her discovery and gave it outright to science. She is a daughter of the professor of chemistry in Fordham University and is a graduate of Columbia University.

"Y" BEANEATERS PHOTOGRAPHED

The members of the Hi-Y Club and their friends met for the last bean supper of the year. There were about thirty present as usual. Election of officers will be held at their next meeting for the year 1921. A flashlight picture was taken of the group for the purpose of putting in the prospectus which the boys' department is getting ready for the summer and fall. Arrangements have been made for an over night week-end hike toward the Second Binnewater leaving Kingston Friday afternoon and returning in time for church Sunday morning.

The boys' Bible classes met Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock for their annual examinations given throughout the country by the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. There were about fifty boys taking the examination. The teachers, Stanley Gregory, N. A. Dillinger, A. W. Buley and Thomas A. Bridges had charge of the examinations which are conducted on the honor system. These courses have been carried on during the winter and spring terminating as usual in the examination.

PREY ON IGNORANT KOREANS

Mutangs, Claiming to Have Supernatural Powers, Make Good Living From Those They Victimize.

The Korean mutang, or mudang, is a sorceress who is considered the lowest of the low in the social system. Though generally married, she is always an abandoned character pretending to be a sort of spiritual medium, able by her friendship with the spirits to influence them as she may wish. The ceremony performed by a mutang, without which her services are of no avail, is called a "kut," there being ten different forms of services that can be performed by means of a kut.

The service most in demand is that of driving away the "hungry" spirits of disease. These spirits come around the door when people are eating, and if they are not thrown a morsel of food they will hold a grievance against the diners. When a man, by some such mischance, contracts a disease, he sends for a mutang, describes his symptoms and asks what spirit it is that is causing it. The mutang usually names some spirit, says that he must see the patient, and names a day on which to hold the kut.

During the ceremony the mutang dances about near the patient until she has worked herself up to a perfect frenzy, her auditors believing that the spirit has taken possession of her body. She screams out the name of the spirit that has come, tells what must be done to cure the patient, until at last the spirit promises to take away the disease. The food provided for the spirit is then eaten with great gusto by the mutang and the friends of the sick man.

The mutang has a lot of influence. Some years ago when a drought was making life uncomfortable in Seoul the citizens went to a mutang and clamored for relief. She explained that the street car lines were pinching the tail of the dragon that guarded the town, and that the dragon was angry. He couldn't sleep and he wouldn't send the needed rain. The cars were destroyed that very night.

Miss Carolyn Granberry

Pretty Carolyn Granberry, humble shopgirl in a Panama Canal commissary store at Balboa, whose captivation of the Prince of Wales upon the occasion of the latter's visit to the Canal Zone aroused the resentment of many of the society ladies present who had hopes of keeping the prince all to themselves. Pretty Carolyn was present at the grand ball given in honor of the prince by the British minister, only through an invitation which included a younger sister who was to dance before the prince. When the dancing began Carolyn sat watching the dancers spin around. Two dances went by and then she was confronted by the prince, who asked in a frank, boyish way if she would dance with him. A ripple of astonishment went around the grand ballroom when the prince, ignoring ever so many of the "select women," led pretty Carolyn, counter clerk and daughter of an electrician, in a dreamy waltz. One, two, three, four dances followed, and the prince and Carolyn missed a dance and went out on the broad veranda, into the tropical night, and gazed at the moon and stars. The next day two of the prince's aides called at the Granberry home in Balboa and took Carolyn to the battleship Renown, where there was an informal reception. The same night Carolyn went to the reception given by President Le Fevre, of the Republic of Panama, by special invitation of the president. And she danced with the prince.

Daughter's Comeback.

Mother—"Shame on you, Dorothy! The idea of letting a boy whom you've known only a week kiss you! Why, when I was your age a girl was considered vulgar who would let a boy even hold her hand until he'd known her several months." Daughter (innocently)—"And didn't you say, once, mother that it used to take you two weeks to go from New York to Chicago?"—Yale Record.

Source of Tears.

"Where do tears come from?" In each eye there is a small duct called the tear duct. This little gland is constantly making tears and washing the eye. The eye "winkers" are the brushes that wash the particles of dust away from the delicate portions of the eye. When we cry the tear gland "works overtime," sending one tear chasing another, like rain drops on the window pane.

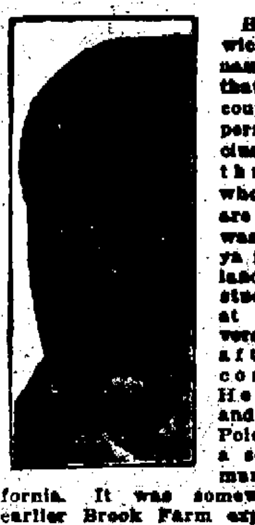
CONDENSED CLASSICS

QUO VADIS

By HENRY SIENKIEWICZ

Condensation by Prof. William Fenwick Harris of Cambridge, Mass.



Henry Sienkiewicz, so great a name in Poland that he has been coupled with Copernicus and Kosciuszko as the three Poles to whom Americans are most indebted, was born in Opreya in Russian Poland in 1846. He studied philosophy at Warsaw university and soon afterwards, in company with Helen Modjeska and other radical Poles, established a socialistic community in California. It was somewhat like the earlier Brook Farm experiment made by Hawthorne and his friends. It was no more successful and Sienkiewicz returned to Poland where he wrote a series of articles for a Warsaw newspaper about his American experiences.

Then he turned to novel writing. He wrote brilliantly and rapidly, turning with the utmost ease from realistic pictures of contemporary life to stories of romance and to historical novels. "Children of the Soil," which he called his best book, is a simple story of Polish life which won more favor with his own countrymen than it did abroad.

In the 80s he completed his tremendous trilogy, "With Fire and Sword," "The Deluge" and "Pan Michael." There was an epic quality about these historical novels that made many people in many lands hail him as a new Scott or a new Dumas.

His international reputation, however, came with "Quo Vadis," his masterpiece of ancient Roman life. It was quickly translated into English and into nearly every tongue. Then it passed to the stage, not only in America and England, but also in France and Germany. Since that success Sienkiewicz had traveled widely, visiting England, France, Italy, Spain, Greece, Africa and the Far East. He received the Nobel prize for literature in 1905. From the outbreak of the war to his death in November, 1916, he devoted himself to the relief of Polish war victims.

"'I do not know of a certainty her name even—Lygia or Callina? They call her Lygia in the house, for she comes of the Lygian nation; but she has her own barbarian name—Callina. It is a wonderful house—that of those Plautiuses. There are many people in it; but it is as quiet there as in the groves of Subiacum. For a number of days I did not know that a divinity dwelt in the house. Once about daybreak I saw her bathing in the garden fountain; and I swear to thee by that foam from which Aphrodite rose, that the rays of dawn passed right through her body. I thought that when the sun rose she would vanish before me in the light, as the twilight of morning does. Since then I have seen her twice; and since then, too, I know not what rest is, I know not what other desires are, I have no wish to know what the city can give me. I want not women, nor gold, nor Corinthian bronze, nor amber, nor pearls, nor wine, nor feasts; I want only Lygia.'"

Thus did Vinicius, young Roman patrician of the time of Nero, announce his love for Lygia, daughter of a king, beautiful hostage from her nation, forgotten in the turmoil of the world empire and brought up as a Roman girl.

Vinicius was speaking to his uncle Petronius, known to his own time as Arbiter Elegantiarum, trained in all the art and beauty of Greece, wise, witty, and learned, gayly staking his life in his daily battle of wits with Tigellinus, who provided for the grosser desires of the tyrant Nero as Petronius did for his finer and more artistic ones.

It was a time when the conflicting tides of a pagan age, sadly degenerate from the sturdy days of pristine Roman virtues, mingled with those of a new era in the world, only recently heralded from Judea. In the complicated threads of the picture of Rome, capital of the world, appear the figures of Peter and Paul on their mission of spreading the new religion of Christ; Poppaea, wife of Nero, beautiful as a dream, but wicked as a nightmare; Eunice, the charming slave of Petronius; Chilo, wily Greek who can be Christian or pagan as profit leads him; Ursus, prodigious in his strength, simple as a child in his faith in Christ and his devotion to Lygia (from whom G. B. S. may have drawn a suggestion in "Androcles and the Lion"), and many minor folk who help to make the story stand out as unusually human among the numerous tales of Greco-Roman times.

When Vinicius told his uncle Petronius of his passion for Lygia, the latter thought nothing was easier than to provide his nephew with what he regarded as a new plaything: a word to Nero, who as emperor had all hostages in his care—summon the maiden to the palace, hand her over to the young patrician as her guardian—what more would be needed to satisfy any one's desires, especially as the maiden manifestly was pleased with Vinicius? But Petronius and his nephew reckoned without a new force that had entered into this Roman world. They could not understand a girl who fled from Nero's court and all its magnificence, fled even from the lover whom she loved. But finally he understood this, which he and Petronius had not understood, that the new religion engrafted into the soul something unknown to that world in which he lived, and that Lygia, even if she loved him, would not sacrifice any of her Christian truths for his sake, and that, if pleasure existed for her, it was a pleasure different altogether from that which he and Petronius and Caesar's court, and all Rome were pursuing. Every other woman whom he knew might become his mistress, but that Christian would only become his victim. And when he thought of this, he felt anger and burning pain, for he felt that his anger was powerless. To carry off Lygia seemed to him possible; he was even sure that he could do so, but he was equally sure that, in view of her religion, he himself, with his bravery, was nothing, that his power was nothing, and that through it he could effect nothing. That Roman military tribune, convinced that the power of the sword and the fist, which had conquered the world, would command it forever, said for the first time in his life that beyond that power there might be something else; hence he asked himself with amazement what it was."

It is a definite and concrete way that the author has chosen to show the power of the new religion over human lives. Struggle as he would, backed by birth, by wealth and all the beauty, charm and allurements that wealth could bring, by the ingenuity and wit of Petronius, by the strong-arm methods of Croton, champion bruiser of his time, even by the force of the known world in Nero's sway, Vinicius could accomplish nothing if all he could win to himself was a mere unwilling body, while soul and spirit were beyond his grasp. And the maddening part to him was that he owed all his troubles to the teachings of a parcel of Jewish fishermen or their likes, or slaves or humble folk who had never before entered into serious consideration in the thoughts of a patrician like himself. It was a long struggle with him, and as the reader follows the various people of the story through their part in the action, he gets an admirable picture of Rome—Nero, tyrant, actor and artist, with all his magnificence and all his eccentricities; the poor and humble in their crowded quarters of the great city; the delight of all the senses in the life led by Petronius; the lawless streets of Rome by night; the pursuit of Lygia by Vinicius and his hirelings, resulting in the death of his professional bruiser Croton at the hands of the faithful Ursus, and the disaster to Vinicius which led to his nursing back to health by the Christians; his meeting with Peter and Paul; the gradual opening of his eyes, physical and spiritual; his discovery of Christians everywhere, among the people, among his own slaves, among soldiers and officers, even in the very court of Nero. And the growing worry and astonishment of Petronius:

"'Vinicius, thou art losing sense, judgment, moderation,' exclaimed Petronius.

"'I love only her in the world,' responded Vinicius.

"'What of that?'

"'This, that I wish no other love. I have no wish for your life, your feasts, your shamelessness, your crimes.'

"'What is taking place in thee? Art thou a Christian?'"

And then the great fire of Rome, set by Tigellinus that Nero might not lack the experience of Priam, who had seen Troy burn; of rescuing Lygia from the flames; the persecution of the Christians with the thought of throwing on them the rage of the people at the burning of the city; the singling out of Lygia by the hate of Poppaea because Vinicius had spurned the empress' proffered charms; the final rescue by a miracle of strength on the part of the ever-faithful Ursus, and the words of Vinicius to Peter:

"'What thou commandest I will do.'

"'Love men as thy own brothers,' answered the apostle, 'for only with love mayest thou serve Him.'"

BROOMS FROM PINE NEEDLES

Said to Be an Excellent Substitute for the Bristles Now Used, and Will Last Longer.

One of the latest discoveries is a new use for pine needles. It has been found that the needles of the pine make a fair substitute for bristles in brushes and brooms. They are found in great quantities on the ground in fir forests, and, owing to the large amount of silica in them, they are hard, and do not decay rapidly.

The pine needles are dealt with in two ways. Where they are long they are simply bunched together and tied firmly, and a stick is pushed down the center as a handle.

The other plan is to insert clusters of smaller needles in holes in a thickish piece of wood. These holes are filled with hot pitch, and when this material has set hard and dry the pine needles are held firmly in place.

Elaborate tests have shown that pine needles wear well. They are not more easily broken than much of the material which has been commonly used in broom-making, and, owing to their hardness, they can withstand a great deal of friction.

Badness Carries Disqualification.

I never knew a man that was bad, fit for any service that was good. There was always some disqualifying ingredient mixing with the compound, and spoiling it. The accomplishment of anything good is a physical impossibility in such a case. He could not if he would, and it is not more certain that he would not if he could, do a good and virtuous action.—Burke.

Opportunity for Every Boy.

It was a wise dispensation of Providence to have invented so many games for boys that every boy can pick out at least one in which he can excel all rivals, and have the memory of his prowess to support him when he has grown old.

CHINA ADDS TO DEMON LIST

At Least Five New "Influences" Have Come to That Country With Spreading Civilization.

China is a land of demons and spirits. For untold ages every business, every dwelling and every condition of life has had its particular demon or flock of demons. The ancient Chinese religion consisted mainly of rites to either propitiate or render powerless the evil spirits and encourage the attendance of the good ones. The category of demons was so complete that it was not until modern civilization began to work its changes that there was room for any more.

Now, however, there are at least five new devils, according to Dr. W. H. Hudson of Kashing, whose lectures in Shanghai on the Chinese conception of ghosts and spirits have been reported to the San Francisco Chronicle.

"Among the modern new devils," Dr. Hudson said in one lecture, "are the malaria devil, the opium devil, the red match devil, the railway devil and the gunshot devil. The natives of the malaria districts have learned that mosquito netting is very efficacious in combating the malaria devil. But that method is not very impressive, and the Chinese, especially those in the back country districts, insist on being impressed. So the priests and native doctors have devised charms and exorcisms whereby they claim to banish the demon without recourse to the netting. The foreign doctors naturally are skeptical, but if noise and banners and general impressiveness have any virtue, the method should be effective.

"The opium devil calls for a particular set of incantations and paper prayers, as does the red match demon. This is a comparatively new demon that came into being about the time that the Chinese discovered that eating match heads was a very convenient and cheap way of committing suicide. The railway devil is distinctly foreign, the natives say. He dwells inside locomotives and his special business is to run the engine over people at every opportunity. He is subject to two sets of prayers, one to allay his yearning to destroy, the other invoking his aid for those tired of life and desirous of a speedy end.

"Then there is the gunshot devil, not so distinctly foreign as his brother of the railway, but just as bloodthirsty. He has come into prominence since the mode of public execution was changed in most places from beheading with the sword to shooting."

The AMERICAN LEGION

ALONG THE LINE OF MARCH WITH THE NATIONAL SERVICE MEN

(Copy for This Department Supplied by National Headquarters of the American Legion)

HANDLES WAR RISK CLAIMS

Head of Service Division of the American Legion Has Had Extensive Experience.

Charles F. Sheridan, head of the service division of the American Legion at national headquarters, Indianapolis, is a native of Oswego, New York, and has had considerable experience in the war risk insurance bureau which enables him to handle with the greatest dispatch the thousands of war risk claims that constantly pass through his office.

Following his graduation from Amherst college in 1912, Mr. Sheridan was engaged in the practice of law in Syracuse, New York, under the firm name of Sheridan & Sheridan, when he entered the service as a private and served until November 1918, when he was commissioned a lieutenant.

He was transferred by the war department to the war risk section, and appointed a battalion sergeant major of infantry, December 1917. He sailed for France on Christmas day of that year and was appointed regimental sergeant major of infantry May, 1918.

His entire service overseas was with the war risk section. From chief clerk of the allotment department, he was promoted to be assistant head, and was finally appointed head of the allotment department.

He was appointed chief of the special service division of the bureau of war risk insurance on February 5, 1919, and continued in that position in Washington until May, 1919, when he was appointed national war risk officer of the American Legion. He was appointed assistant national secretary of the Legion and then director of the service division.

LABOR UNIONS FAVOR LEGION

Kern County, California, Labor Council Recommends That All Members Join World War Body.

While a number of isolated cases of local unions taking action against the American Legion have been given considerable publicity in the press, practically nothing has been said with regard to the hundreds of locals through the country that have indorsed the work of the Legion. A story along this line was recently carried in the Union Labor Journal of Bakersfield, Cal., as follows:

There has been a disposition upon the part of some persons who are none too desirous of seeing a friendly spirit developed between organized labor and the American Legion who have gone out of their way to make representations to the effect that union labor is antagonistic to the Legion. This sort of misrepresentation has been indulged in to the extent that false reports have been disseminated to the effect that labor organizations have attacked the American Legion in resolutions of condemnation. In no instance have we known of any such attitude upon the part of a labor organization, nor do we credit as truthful any report to that effect. On the contrary organized labor recognizes the fact that the great mass of the membership of the American Legion are working men to whom a great debt is owed by the nation. It recognizes the further fact that the interests of the members of the Legion are identical with those of the rest of American working men.

The national executive committee as well as the state executive committee of the American Legion has repudiated the attempts of those who have sought to make the Legion an organization antagonistic to labor, a thing which could never be because of the fact that from the ranks of labor came the great majority of the young men who made up the army of democracy.

Union labor has not sought to make of the Legion a partisan of unionism nor can it take kindly to the efforts of those designing ones who try to create enmity between the American Legion and organized labor.

During the present week a statement has gone from Bakersfield to a certain metropolitan paper to the effect that the Kern County Labor Council had in a resolution denounced the American Legion. The report is so maliciously groundless that it could have been inspired only by a desire to influence the Legion and labor organizations elsewhere into an attitude of antagonism.

The Sacramento Labor Council has this week passed a ringing resolution of indorsement of the American Legion and the Kern County Labor Council has taken occasion to deny the canard alleging enmity by stating in unequivocal terms its friendship for the American Legion, its membership and its purposes, in a resolution of indorsement.

We wonder if the author of the libelous report that the Labor Council had condemned the American Legion knows what proportion of the men from this community who served in the military and naval forces was or now are members of organized labor. If he had he would certainly have picked out a community in which the number of workingmen who carry union cards and an honorable discharge from the army was not so numerous as in Kern county. It would surprise him to know that at least half of the men who went into the service from Kern county are or have been members of a labor union.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, The American Legion is an organization composed of men and women who gave their services to the government of the United States or one of the allied powers during the great war; and

"Whereas, The American Legion is organized for the purpose of promoting the interests of those who gave their services to the country in that great crisis; and

"Whereas, The interests of the great majority of the members of the American Legion are known to be identical with the aims and aspirations of organized labor; therefore be it

"Resolved, By the Kern County Labor Council, in regular session assembled, this 23rd day of December, 1919, that we indorse the American Legion and recommend that all members of local unions affiliated with this body eligible for membership in the American Legion take their rightful places as members of that organization."

FRENCH PAY TENDER TRIBUTE

Present Elaborate Certificates to Next Kin of American Boys Who Died in the War.

The French certificates, 118,409 of which were distributed to the next kin of the American soldiers, sailors and marines who died in the war, are beautifully engraved diplomas typical of the artistic nature of the French people. The certificates were distributed by the posts of the American Legion with appropriate exercises on Washington's birthday, in expression of the French government's appreciation of the supreme sacrifice made by these men.

The principal figure of the group symbolizes the soul and spirit of the American army which helped France to maintain alive the flame of the torch of liberty and justice.

The sword is not in the scabbard but ready at any moment to protect and stanchly defend the weak and oppressed, who are symbolized in the group to the left by a mother holding her baby to her breast, and to insure freedom and justice to the coming generations, represented by the figure of the kneeling boy, praying and thanking God for deliverance.

Certificate Presented to the Kin of Americans.

At the right, the figure of a man, chained and shackled, symbolizes the spirit of evil and the victory over our enemies. Also at the right, crowning the spirit of America, stands "Glory" who rejoices with the old war veteran, standing to the left of the principal figure, symbolizing the armies, who are always ready to fight for the good of humanity.

Universal fame is symbolized by the winged figure, flying over the group, and trumpeting to the world, the great triumph in which the United States participated. The American eagle, posed on the staff of peace, watches zealously and stands ready to swoop in case enemies again endeavor to disturb the peace of the world, so dearly acquired.

The entire group is framed by a border of oak and laurel leaves which are always decreed to the victors.

At the foot of the cenotaph the flags of France and America are draped and joined together by a wreath, which is the mark of gratitude and homage which France pays to our sons who gave their lives for liberty and justice.

The lines engraved on the wall behind the group are taken from one of Victor Hugo's poems, and when translated read, "Those who died piously for their country, have the right that at their graves, the people come to pray."

THE Rexall STORES

Important Notice!

Owing to conditions existing in coffee market, it is impossible to offer Opeko Breakfast Coffee as a regular one-cent sale item. It is offered to you, however, at a very low price, and at practically a profit of 1c a pound to the dealer. This is an unusually good quality and consists of the finest blends of coffee that can be obtained at anywhere near the price we offer it.

Special Price 43c Per Pound

Nowhere in America except at the Rexall Store can coffee of such a quality be purchased at this price.

THURSDAY, FRIDAY and SATURDAY

April 22nd, 23rd and 24th

What is a One Cent Sale? It is a sale where you buy an item at the regular price—then another item of the same kind for 1c. As an illustration: The standard price of Rexall Tooth Paste is 25c. You buy a tube at this price, and by paying 1c more, or 26c, you get two tubes. Every article in this sale is a high-class standard piece of merchandise, just the same as we sell you every day at regular prices and have sold you for years.

A New Way of Advertising This sale was developed by the United Drug Co. as an advertising plan. Rather than spend large sums of money in other ways to convince you of the merit of these goods, they are spending it on this sale in permitting us to sell you a full-size package of high standard merchandise for 1c. It costs money to get new customers, and the loss taken on this sale will be well spent if the goods please you.

Standard Weights and Measures.

The idea of adopting scientific measurements as a basis of a system of weights and measures was suggested as early as the seventeenth century, particularly by the French astronomer, Jean Picard, who lived from 1620 to 1682. The system was worked out and taken up by the national assembly of France in 1790. It was adopted and its use made compulsory in 1801.

Money-Making Called Obsession.

Big money-making is like drink—it's a habit. At first you want money. Later you think only of the game, and the money becomes the mere symbol of success. Last stage of all, you play because you cannot stop.—Walter E. Weyl in Saturday Evening Post.

The Wind Decides.

In Sumatra the wind decides the length of time a widow shall remain single. Just after her husband's death she plants a flagstaff at her door, upon which a flag is raised. While the flag remains untorn by the wind the etiquette of Sumatra forbids her to marry; but at the first rent, however small, she can lay aside her mourning, assume her most bewitching smile and accept the first man who presents himself.

High school boys adopt Khaki.

The movement against the extremely high prices of clothing is rapidly spreading throughout the country, cities, colleges, clubs and schools having joined in the move. Students of Jamaica High School, New York, have adopted khaki uniforms for school wear. The complete khaki outfit costs but a few dollars when purchased through the school board, which buys the garments at wholesale and in turn sells to the students at cost. The photograph shows some of the boys leaving the school house in their khaki outfits.

Louis F. Post.

A resolution looking to the impeachment of Lewis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor, for his attitude toward the deportation of extremists, has been introduced in the house by Representatives Hoch, Republican, Kansas, according to a report from Washington. The resolution would direct the judiciary committee to investigate the charges made against Post by Chairman Johnson, of the immigration committee, and others, and if the evidence warrants, to report a resolution proposing impeachment. It is alleged that Secretary Post sought to prevent the deportation of alien "Reds."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

We can be what we will be, but only by holding ourselves to consistent and well-calculated thought and action.—Sheldon Leavitt.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS.

A most appetizing salad dressing which is especially nourishing served on head lettuce or the leaf lettuce is:

Cream Cheese Dressing. — Take one cream cheese, mash and mix with a half teaspoonful of onion juice, half a teaspoonful each of mustard, salt and paprika, a dash of cayenne, a teaspoonful of sugar. Mix well, then add to a French dressing made by using six tablespoonfuls of oil and two of vinegar beaten thick. Add the cream cheese gradually until well mixed and smooth. Serve well chilled on crisp fresh lettuce.

Jellied Apples.—Melt a cupful of sugar in a cupful of boiling water and when boiling hot add three cored and peeled apples. Turn the apples while cooking to cook tender throughout without spoiling the shape. Let the apples cool. To the sirup add leftover canned fruit juices, such as pineapple, peach or pear, making one and three-fourths cupfuls of juice all together. In this dissolve one tablespoonful of granulated gelatin softened in one-fourth cupful of cold water, add the juice of half a lemon and let chill. Set one-half of a walnut meat in the bottom of a cup, above it set the cooked apples, pour in a tablespoonful of jelly and as it thickens add more to fill the cup. Mold the rest of the jelly in a shallow dish and use it as a garnish for the unmolded apples. Serve with cream as a dessert or as a salad with French dressing.

Lemon Jumbles.—Beat two-thirds of a cupful of shortening to a cream; add a scant cupful of sugar gradually and the grated rind of a lemon; add two eggs beaten light, two tablespoonfuls of thick sour milk, half a teaspoonful of salt, two cupfuls of sifted flour and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Mix and cut into rings with a doughnut cutter, sprinkle with sugar and bake. This makes 40 cookies.

Fried Bananas.—Cut bananas a little under-ripe in halves crosswise, then in halves lengthwise. Roll in flour and saute quickly in butter, browning on both sides. Serve at once. Very nice as a garnish for broiled steak.

Scotch for Tough.

Stopping at the same boarding house as myself was a young Scotsman, who was annoyed at every meal by the landlady inquiring as to the name in Scottish of the various articles on the table. On this particular day she passed the meat to him saying, "What would you call that in Scotland?" He tried it gingerly with his fork then looked up seriously and replied, "Leather."—Exchange.

MARY POWELL ON HER LAST TRIP

Old River Queen, Bought by John A. Fischer, Towed to Connelly by Tug Rob—The Steamboat Will be Dismantled.

This morning the Mary Powell, old Queen of the Hudson, made the last trip of her long and varied career when she was towed to the Harcourt and Terry dock at Connelly by the tug Rob. As told in The Freeman last week, the old queen was bought by ex-Alderman John A. Fischer of Abeel street, who will dismantle her.

Last fall the Hudson River Day Line decided to junk the Powell and asked for sealed bids from junk dealers. A junk concern of Newburgh and Poughkeepsie bought the old queen, and while trying to arrange for her sale to other parties to be used in southern waters the Hudson river became closed to navigation by a cold snap.

Since that time the Powell has been berthed at the Sunflower dock in the Rondout creek until her final sail to the graveyard—the junk pile—this morning.

At the time the old queen was sold last fall The Freeman devoted several columns to her history, there never having been another Hudson river steamboat that was as widely known throughout the world as she. Her passing is noted with regret, especially by the older generation to whom she was more than a steamboat—she was a tradition.

Two Powerful Sermons.

(Contributed.)

The Rev. J. T. Mathews, pastor of the Franklin Street A. M. E. Church, delivered two powerful sermons on Sunday before large congregations which were most attentively listened to. His morning theme was from the 84th Psalm, seventh verse, dwelling on the growth of a child of God, as it goes from strength to strength. The evening discourse, an able one, was from Matthew ix. 10-38.

GLEE CLUB COMING.

St. Stephen's Collegians to Perform at Holy Cross Hall.

St. Stephen's Glee Club of Annandale will give a performance at Holy Cross Hall, Kingston, on the evening of April 28.

The return of some of the former members of the club from military service has restored the organization to its former excellence. Harold E. Clark, one of the members, is well known to music lovers here, having sung with the Kingston Symphony Orchestra this winter. The club quartet consists of Messrs. Hoffman, Clark, Colwell and Wilson. The program will include fine harmony, clever wit, soloists with real voices and dancing. Dancing will also follow the show, for which Shurter's orchestra will furnish the music.

NOTICE is hereby given that a public hearing on said petition will be held by Chairman Hill of this Commission at the court house in the city of Kingston on Wednesday, April 28, 1920, at ten o'clock a. m.

By the Commission,
FRANCIS X. [illegible],
Secretary.
